"MISSING" AMERICAN NOT EVEN IN PARIS

PARIS, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Stanley Cosden, wealthy Tulsa, Okla., resident, who was reported in America to be missing after Wednesday's riot here, spent the night with friends in Versailles, he explained today, and did not even see the fighting.

"I am perfectly all right," Cosden said. He had a tentative appointment with one Paris friend yesterday, he explained, and when he was unable to telephone the friend the latter worried and tried to locate Cosden.

PARIS, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The aged and venerable Gaston Doumergue led anxious France along the path to peace today after 48 hours of violence, but the premier-elect met difficulties as he sought a "cabinet of political truce."

A veteran of political strife as former minister, premier and president, Doumergue worked to perfect his "salvation government" in an atmosphere of sadness, with flags everywhere at half mast in honor of victims in Tuesday's and Wednesday's nights of terror.

His smiling arrival from his peaceful country home this morning brought a happy rush of affection by a greatly relieved citizenry who acclaimed him with fond shouts of "vive Doumergue!" and followed his automobile almost worshipfully.

He hoped to build his "ministry of premiers" in 12 hours, but his secretary tonight admitted that the task would have to continue tomorrow.

Policemen and guards, meanwhile, got a breathing spell tonight from what the French press itself described as "insurrection" or "civil war" that took a toll officially set at 12 dead and thousands injured, with heavy property damage.

There was one minor riot near the Madeleine church this evening, but the police quickly broke it up. The general run of demonstrators, however, appeared content to await developments.

Hoodlums, nevertheless, were still clustered on street corners, but the riotous atmosphere of the last two days was completely changed with Doumergue's arrival.

A socialist and communist manifestation scheduled for Friday night worried advocates while a 24-hour general strike set for Monday by the French Federation of Labor aroused fears of a renewal of rioting and perhaps even street encounters between moderates and extremists.

Funerals Feared. Another dangerous period was anticipated during the funerals of the riot victims, who will be buried at the cost of the city of Paris on February 13.

Anti-Long Announcer Stabbed in Louisiana

HKE IN CWA FUND BEATEN IN SENATE; MEASURE PASSED

Administration Upheld as Move for Additional $2,000,000,000 Is Lost, 57 to 10.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The senate tonight passed the administration bill appropriating $950,000,000 additional for civil works and relief grants to the states after administration forces had defeated overwhelmingly republican independent efforts to boost the total. It now goes to conference with the house.

The decision was reached without a roll call after Senator Cutting, republican, New Mexico, had lost, 57 to 10, an amendment to raise the fund to $2,500,000,000—$2,000,000,000 of it for civil works—and Senator LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin, had been defeated, 52 to 14, in an effort to increase the total to $1,500,000,000.

Seven and a half hours of spirited debate preceded passage, members holding several hours after dinner no as to have tomorrow free for a special aviation contempt trial.

Senator McCarran, democrat, Nevada, won, by 42 to 10, an amendment requiring all state relief and civil works directors to be appointed by the president and confirmed by the senate and obtaining a promise from Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, in charge of the bill, that the senate conferees would come back to the floor for another vote before giving in on the proposal in conference.

McCarren said he offered the amendment to "bring the whole thing into connection with administration of the two relief projects. He thought the senate should scrutinize those who are selected to spend the huge sums."

LaFollette opposed the amendment on the ground that some of the relief work for another vote before giving in on the proposal in conference.

After Cutting's amendment was voted down LaFollette gained four more votes for his proposal with a statement which went virtually unchallenged, that failure of his amendment would mean that "beginning tomorrow 250,000 civil works members would be demobilized each week until the first of May when none would be employed."

Object of Administration. McKellar said Harry L. Hopkins, civil works and relief administrator, had told the appropriations committee the administration intended to reduce gradually the civil works force and

U.S. MAY BE GIVEN FINDINGS OF JURY IN RELIEF PROBE

Operations of South Side CWA 'Health and Accident Benefit Society' Are Disclosed.

Fulton county grand jury's relief probe which began with scattered complaints that relief orders are being bartered for liquor and discounted for cash, was well under way at the close of the special session called for Thursday, and although no announcement was made it is understood that there is a likelihood of a decision by the grand jury that the matter of adjustment of any irregularities is a matter for the federal government, and that at Tuesday's regular session the grand jury will make a final decision as to whether to present its findings to the government for consideration.

The session Thursday brought out nearly 100 witnesses, including among the 75 subpoenaed about 30 women social workers. Between 20 and 30 volunteer witnesses, men and women anxious to give information to the inquisitorial body, appeared but because of the large number of subpoenaed witnesses were told they would be summoned when needed.

Among the first witnesses examined was Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state CWA administrator.

Among other witnesses was Dr. Andrew M. Soule, Georgia's representative on the president's national emergency relief council, who was reported to have discussed the policies of the CWA and special relief advocated by Harry L. Hopkins, national relief administrator.

An organization known as "The South Side CWA," purportedly operating a health and accident benefit society, was brought to the attention of officials Thursday during a Fulton county grand jury probe of reports that food tickets issued by relief agencies had been exchanged for liquor.

The inquisitorial body also heard A. Steve Nance and W. E. Mitchell, formerly associated with the emergency relief council, and the men said their discussions were related to CWA methods but were of a general nature.

The head of practically every department of the Fulton county relief administration and the state organization of the CWA has been summoned to appear before the grand jury, along with many others and the investigation was expected to last another full day.

Nathan said his investigation had shown that weekly collections of 25 cents were made from CWA workers who were told they would be "taken care of" in case of illness or injury which caused them to stop working.

Knowledge of the existence of such a society came about with the filing of a complaint by a man who presented a card showing he had paid 25 cents on December 21, and who charged that he became ill and applied for relief from the "South Side CWA" without success.

Nathan said that his probe had failed to find any books, records, or list of membership. He said the complaining worker, however, had given him the name of a man who acted as president. The card which showed payment of the 25 cents bore the name of the secretary, the attorney said, but so far as he could learn there was no treasurer.

The president of the "society" came to the offices of the Fulton County Legal Aid Relief Society and promised to make good the claim of the complainant, Nathan added.

Investigators said they did not know how many had joined the "association," but they expressed the opinion that only CWA workers in Atlanta had been solicited.

Edward Bremer Freed; $200,000 Ransom Paid

Edward G. Bremer, left, young St. Paul banker, was returned to his family Thursday after 22 days of captivity in the hands of kidnapers. His father, Adolph Bremer, right, supplied the $200,000 ransom through which the release was effected.

ST. PAUL, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Freedom, bought and paid for with a fortune in money, was Edward G. Bremer's again today when he returned from 22 days in a kidnappers' lair, wounded and exhausted.

The full $200,000 ransom, $85,000 in $5 bills and the rest in $10 bills, was delivered by Walter Magee Tuesday night after a hitch in previous plans for payment had thwarted arrangements, arousing fresh anxiety among the family that Bremer might never return.

Nathan, wealthy contractor friend who received the first ransom note January 17 when the banker was seized, was sworn to secrecy and would not reveal details of the ransom payment.

It was learned, however, that some time prior to last Saturday Magee received instructions from the gang. He was to take a bus from St. Paul at a specified hour, to a certain Des Moines (Iowa) hotel and register under an assumed name, having in his possession the money. The gang supplied the name he was to use.

Money Under Time Lock. There he was told to wait further word. However, when Magee received the communication the money was under a time lock in a St. Paul bank and the plan could not be carried out. Several days passed without further word.

ROOSEVELT SEEKS TO CONTROL 'BOOM' IN STOCK PRICES

President Sees Menace to Basic Commodity Values in Too Swift Speculative Advances.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's decision to seek stock and commodity exchange control legislation at this time was prompted by a desire to safeguard the present upward movement in commodity prices against too great a speculative influence in the market.

Officials close to the chief executive said today he was anxious to avoid a repetition of the events of last summer when a commodity price after a long sustained rise, fell away, as the result, he considered, of an over-extended speculative boom in stocks and grains.

It was considered significant that soon after the White House began to speak seriously and "determinedly" of giving the government wider powers of supervision of the stock and commodity futures markets, and that at the president's request, a committee headed by Secretary Roper began an inquiry into what could be done.

Now commodity prices are on the rise again and have recovered much of the ground that was lost in the collapse of last summer. Stocks have been booming, too. The devaluation of the dollar has, in the opinion of administration advisors, provided an added stimulus, but at the same time has furnished the basis for a broad expansion of bank credits which might encourage too great an upswing in the market.

For this reason, an important feature of the administration bill, to be introduced tomorrow, and one which carries considerable argument at the capital is a section providing for the control of credit flowing into the stock market for marginal buying. Heretofore this has rested largely with the federal reserve system, and those who protested vigorously against the transfer of some of the system's powers to the secretary of the treasury by the recently enacted monetary bill already are preparing for a fight.

The committee strongly recommended such regulation, but proposed that it be in the hands of a specially appointed board, or "stock exchange authority," and that the board be authorized to issue orders to the federal reserve system, and those who protested vigorously against the transfer of some of the system's powers to the secretary of the treasury by the recently enacted monetary bill already are preparing for a fight.

Pecca Works. Ferdinand Pecora, counsel to the senate committee, through a spectacular investigation of stock exchange practices, spent yesterday and today at work drafting the measure, adding, however, that the president's exchange control added virtually at the last minute.

For the stock market, the principal provisions of the measure will be the licensing of all exchanges and, it is understood, brokerage houses as well, and placing them under the supervision of the federal reserve system. The latter would be given broad and flexible powers to establish rules of trading and change them from time to time as developments may necessitate.

A flat ban on pool operations, classifying them as "criminal conspiracies," and making such activities punishable by fine and imprisonment.

50 Per Cent. A requirement that all marginal purchases be covered by at least 50 per cent cash.

The sections of the bill dealing with commodities would include provisions for increased air defense. It was understood that the bill would contain licensing provisions covering commodity exchanges and commission brokers and place supervision in the hands of the trade commission.

It was planned originally that the stock and commodity markets will cover the subjects of separate bills, and this yet may be done. Chairman Fletcher of the senate banking committee said, adding, however, that the president wanted the two combined in a single measure if possible.

Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, will be one of a number of witnesses at hearings which Fletcher has scheduled to begin next Tuesday. In the house, the measure will be introduced by Chairman Rayburn of the commerce committee, but no plans of procedure have been made.

Department of agriculture officials have not yet put their ideas for regulation of the commodity exchanges into bill form but said that they were working on the measure.

Cotton Hits New Peak For 5th Successive Day

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Cotton prices established new tops for the year and season for the fifth successive session today, rallying broadly after early reactions to close strong and at the top, $1.20 to $1.35 a bale above yesterday's finish.

Middling cotton for immediate delivery was marked up to 12.24 cents a pound on a $1.20 a bale upsurge in the spot market.

The rally boosted the post-Christmas rise to $10.75 a bale net.

FEDERAL PROBES HINT OF EXISTENCE OF CONTRACT RING

Intimation of Plan To Split Millions in U. S. Business Spurs Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—A thornier road for lobbyists before government departments, the investigation of whom has brought intimations that a ring existed which sought to arrange for a division of millions of dollars of contracts, is being charted by administration officials.

The investigative whirl has circled about three persons high in veterans and national guard organizations produced new witnesses before the grand jury today to tell about the events that led to holding up the millions of dollars of contracts for supplying equipment for the war department's motorization program.

From other departments whence lobbying charges have emanated, there came a move today to tighten down on the regulations under which attorneys practice. Most of those said to be involved in the charges being investigated by the grand jury are attorneys.

Similar Action. Close behind the word that Secretary of War was arranging for a conference with a representative of the New York City Bar Association to revise the standards for attorneys practicing before the treasury, there came intimations from other departments that they might take similar action.

Even before Secretary Magenhau arranged the conference with Charles H. Buehling, of the New York bar, looking to revision of standards for attorneys, the treasury had taken to himself complete control of the department's committee on enrollment and disbarment of practicing lawyers.

The order for this was promulgated on January 5, at a time when the treasury had taken to himself complete control of the department's committee on enrollment and disbarment of practicing lawyers.

While the government was arming against attacks on its use of undue influence in procuring government business, Edward Hayes, national commander of the American Legion, came to the capital to conduct his own private investigation into reports that two men high in the Legion were involved in the war department inquiry.

Cook Witnesses. Among the witnesses who trooped through the grand jury chamber during the day was Lieutenant Colonel H. W. Cook, active in Legion efforts for increased air defense. It was understood Cook was to be asked concerning the work of the aviation committee of the Legion.

Until Cook appeared, the identity of the grand jury witnesses indicated the trend of investigation was into the Desperado Was To Have Entered Guilty Plea in Boettcher Case Within Few Days.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Feb. 8.—(UP)—Verne Sankey, confessed kidnaper of two wealthy middle western men and a suspect in the kidnapping of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., fashioned his necktie into a noose and hanged himself in a state prison cell tonight.

He was arrested in Chicago on January 31 as he waited for a shave in a barber's chair, and readily confessed to the kidnapping of Charles A. Boettcher, Denver, and Haskell St. Paul. He collected $80,000 for the release of Boettcher and $120,000 for the release of Rohm.

The United States deputy marshals, Frank Gilmore and A. P. Neely, guarding Sankey and Gordon Alcorn, his confessed accomplice in the Boettcher kidnapping, had inspected Sankey's cell just five minutes before he was found dead. United States District Attorney Olaf Eiden said.

Bravado Returned. At the time of the inspection, Sankey, when he'd been unusually glum for the last few days in contrast to his high spirits immediately after his capture in Chicago, had regained his bravado, the deputies reported.

They had no more than turned their backs to inspect Alcorn's cell, however, when Sankey studied a handkerchief down his throat, apparently to prevent noise, attached his necktie to a projection on the ceiling of his cell, and jumped from his cot.

Discovered a few moments later, Sankey's body was removed and sent to the hospital. He was pronounced dead. The former rancher, by his own hand, had ended the most daring of kidnappings careers.

He asked no mercy for himself, but almost his last request to federal officers was that his wife, Mrs. Verne Sankey, be held in connection with the kidnapping of Boettcher, he "given a break." He had offered to plead guilty to the kidnapping, but insisted his wife had no part in it.

Others Said Involved. Eiden said, however, that Sankey's confession was "a confession in vain." New evidence had strengthened the government's case against Mrs. Sankey and probably will involve other Eiden said.

The search for the kidnappers of the Lindbergh baby led to the arrest of Sankey and through him to the arrest of Gordon Alcorn, an admitted confederate in the abduction of Boettcher. Alcorn was arrested in Chicago the day after his chief was taken.

Federal officers believed Alcorn had no part in the Lindbergh kidnapping, but they questioned Sankey continuously for 30 hours. Officers who had been working on the Lindbergh case but not in the Lindbergh kidnapping, but they questioned Sankey continuously for 30 hours. Court Orders Hutton To Pay Lawyer $5,000

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8.—(AP)—A judgment for $5,000 against David L. Hutton was awarded today by Superior Judge Leon Yankelevich to Mark F. Jones, an attorney who defended the former Angelus Temple baritone in a breach of promise suit brought by Myrtle Hazel St. Pierre, Pasadena nurse.

The suit also resulted in a $5,000 judgment against Hutton, estranged husband of Aimee-Semple, McPherson Hutton.

Jones asked a fee of $7,500. Hutton asserted the lawyer agreed to take his defense for the publicity in it.

U.S. 'Hopelessly' Unprepared For Air Attack, Says Mitchell

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(UP)—The United States is in a "hopeless position" to resist attack by an invading air force, former Brigadier General William Mitchell warned the house military affairs committee today.

In a stinging attack on the army general staff resembling the criticism that brought about his court-martial in 1926, Mitchell said an adequate national defense could not be developed until federal aviation activities were centered in one department.

He said bluntly that "Japan is our most dangerous enemy" and that he charged that high officials of the war and navy department had stopped efforts at the close of the World War to develop bombing planes designed for use in a possible conflict with Japan.

"We are absolutely in a hopeless position to repel attack," he snapped. "Think of it, we have only 47 bombers, 150 pursuit planes and 97 observation planes in service. Gentlemen, this is terrible."

The old fire blazed in his eyes as he spat out his contempt of the usefulness of the navy in the next big war.

Town Seeks To Seize Telephone Property

HENDERSON, N. C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—The city of Henderson today instituted proceedings to obtain possession of the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company's properties here.

The move was made as an outgrowth of the dispute with an telephone company over renewal of its franchise.

Representatives of the local properties of the telephone company are being operated by J. H. Bridges, superintendent of the municipal waterworks, as receiver.

He was appointed last week after the company cut off service for 21 hours as the climax of the dispute over the franchise. A hearing on making the receivership permanent has been set for next Monday at Windsor before Superior Court Judge M. V. Barnhill.

PAY OF TEACHERS ASSURED BY CWA

Common Schools in Small Town of State Will Operate Full Time.

Assurance that all common schools of the state in rural areas and towns of less than 5,000 population will remain open for the full term was given Thursday when Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief and civil works administrator, informed Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state administrator, that the CWA will provide teachers and funds for teachers if local, county and state authorities are unable to pay them. Hundreds of teachers in the common schools already are being paid by the civil works administration and the letter from Mr. Hopkins to Miss Shepperson assures the teachers of continued payment of their salaries, averaging $90 a month.

The federal administrator informed Miss Shepperson that in addition to pay the teachers appointed by the CWA the federal government will pay the salaries of those now being paid by the school districts and the state if those agencies find they are unable to carry on the payments. The CWA is allotting $2,000,000 monthly to the payment of teachers' salaries at present but Mr. Hopkins informed Miss Shepperson that additional funds for the teachers would be available if necessary.

Fast Transport Ship Makes Atlanta Stop

The world's first three-mile-a-minute multi-motored passenger transport plane, sister-ship of 60 Boeing all-metal, low-wing monoplane built for United Air Lines, paid Candler field a short visit Thursday on the way to New Orleans for the dedication of Shushan airport and the Pan-American air races.

Aboard the gigantic plane were Ward Morehouse, of the New York Sun, formerly an Atlanta reporter; Rex Cleveland, of the New York Times; C. B. Allen, of the New York Herald-Tribune; George Mason, of the Boston Transcript; Fred Moore, of the Hartford Times, and Harold Cary, of United Air Lines.

The Boeing transports are of a radically different type of construction from other transport types. The ship climbs 1,520 feet a minute, attaining an altitude of 10,000 feet in 11 minutes. It flies 750 miles without refueling and will climb on only one engine. It is equipped with two-way radio. The trip from New York to Atlanta was made in four hours and 45 minutes.

Scott Death Inquest Set for Saturday

Identification of the slayer of W. A. Scott, owner and publisher of the Atlanta World, only daily negro newspaper in the United States, is expected to develop Saturday at an inquest to be held by Coroner Paul Donehoo at the funeral parlor of David T. Howard, it was reported Thursday.

Scott was said to have made a death-bed statement in which he gave his strong suspicions as to the identity of the gunman who shot him in the back on the night of January 30 as he was preparing to put his car in the garage at Ashby and West home, and arrest of a suspect is expected to follow the inquest.

Operation of the World and other newspapers of the Scott chain will be continued by the late publisher's family with C. A. Scott, his brother, in charge, it was said.

MINNA HECKER TO SING MONDAY AT DINNER HERE

Miss Minna Hecker, accompanied by Mrs. Paul Bryan, will sing at the Georgia products dinner to be held on the Ansley roof garden Monday night, Gordon O. Singleton, general chairman, announced Thursday. The dinner is a part of the program of the American Legion to promote the purchase of Georgia products.

Miss Hecker will sing "Casta Diva," from Norma, and the "Norwegian Herdman's Song." She is a student of Miss Margaret Hecht, of Atlanta, and is soloist at St. Luke's Episcopal church. She has appeared with the Emory Glee Club at their annual concert, and last year she toured the state as soloist for the University of Georgia Glee Club.

An exhibit of Georgia products will be shown at the dinner. The general public has been invited to attend. Tickets at $1 each may be obtained from the American Legion office, 517 Chamber of Commerce building, or from the cashier's office of the Ansley hotel. A special invitation has been extended to members of other Legion posts and to members of other organizations.

"WAS TAKING EVERY KIND OF DRUG FOR CONSTIPATION"

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Relief

Read this very enthusiastic letter:

"I am 34 years old and as far back in my life I have been constipated. I was so bad that I had one bowel movement every five or six days. I was taking every kind of drug known for constipation.

"Now for the last two months I have been eating a little ALL-BRAN night and morning and I have at least two to three bowel movements each day."—Mr. Frank Piratzky, 40-66 98th St., Corona, Long Island, New York.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN is also a fine source of iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, this clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this safer than taking harmful patent medicines? Two table-spoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Severe cases with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

You'll enjoy eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream—sugar or honey or fresh fruits added. Or, to use in cooking.

In the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

BANANA GINGERBREAD SHORTCAKE

TRY your hand at this recipe—quick, easy, and tastes for all the world like a second helping:

Banana Gingerbread Shortcake

Cream 3 tablespoons shortening and $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar thoroughly. Add one beaten egg and $\frac{1}{2}$ cup molasses. Sift together and add $1\frac{1}{4}$ cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon soda, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon ginger, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon cinnamon. When thoroughly mixed, add $\frac{1}{2}$ cup boiling water. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 20 to 25 minutes in two greased 8 or 9-inch layer pans. Cool, place 2 or 3 sliced bananas between and on top of layers. Cover with 1 cup heavy cream, whipped, and banana slices. Serves six to eight.

Here's the way to tell when and how to use bananas: If yellow tipped with green, that's your cooking signal. Bake in the skin, just as you bake potatoes. Or peel and broil, or brown in a little fat as a marvelous year-round "vegetable."

When yellow ripe, they're perfect for salads and desserts or for eating as a fruit, yet still firm enough for cooking.

Yellow flecked with brown means fully ripe—the high point of mellow deliciousness—to peel and eat "as is"... to slice and serve with milk for a well-balanced breakfast, lunch or supper, in between meals and for tempting desserts.

C. OF C. BACKS PLAN FOR FARM MARTS

Committee To Encourage Statewide Movement Is Named at Meeting.

The Chamber of Commerce, through its agricultural division, Thursday joined in a state-wide movement to develop and stabilize agriculture in Georgia by providing markets for farm and dairy products.

A committee to devise a definite plan whereby the chamber will be helpful to the farmers was set up at a meeting of state and county farm heads with members of the agricultural division. Ray Hastings was named chairman of the group which is composed of Commissioner of Agriculture G. C. Adams, Colonel William B. Hutchinson, of Albany; C. H. Bishop and S. D. Truitt, Fulton county farm agent. The committee will attend the forthcoming convention of county agents at Athens with a view toward setting up its program.

Scott Allen, chairman of the agricultural division of the C. of C., pointed out the great need for fostering Georgia products in the state, asserting that in a large number of instances Georgians were buying out-of-state products when they could get the same thing grown in Georgia.

Colonel Hutchinson, who recently returned from Washington where he attended a series of conferences on the beef cattle and dairy situation under the auspices of the agricultural adjustment administration, Thursday announced that his organization soon will sponsor a campaign to sell Georgia beef to Georgia, pointing out that Georgia grown cattle are healthier than any in the country, and that Georgia cattle raisers are capable of supplying the state's entire beef needs.

FINAL TRIBUTE PAID DR. MELL L. DUGGAN

Prominent Georgia educators formed honorary escorts Thursday morning at the funeral services for Dr. Mell L. Duggan, former superintendent of Georgia schools, who died Wednesday. Rites were held at Spring Hill. Dr. Louie D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, and Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated and interment was in Crest Lawn cemetery. Dr. Duggan was a graduate of Mercer University and Harvard University and was for many years one of the best known educators in the state. He taught at Shorter College for seven years and for 17 years was state supervisor of schools before becoming state superintendent. He was 77 years of age.

MARSH BY NIGHT.

It is sometime before midnight, and the scene is my little marsh. Although I know that houses were only 50 yards away when I came into the water, I might readily believe myself in another world. I have so circumscribed my vision with a flashlight that the rest of the universe might as well be blotted out, save for the ghostly twinkle of a star at my feet, where the water has picked up its blue-white rays. The log I am sitting on is rather damp and I believe I had better go and get thoroughly wet in the marsh itself and make other ripples to compete with the wavelets set up by the muskrats from the opposite bank. There is a light breeze in the pines just at hand, furnishing a symphonic background for the strings and brasses and basses of the animal colony. And again, as in the case of a symphony, I strive to single out a single instrument or section, and follow that one theme to the exclusion of the rest of the sound.

This time it is the flute of the marsh symphony that I am after. Not that I expect to get just the sound, for that has long since been burned into my consciousness. No, I want the flute itself, and in taking it, I shall also have to kidnap the musician, since he and his instrument are inseparable. He taught me where to look last year, and now I see the white bubbles of hyla throats all around me as I step into the water. The deep silt sucks at my boots, and I splash around to reach a tussock of marsh grass a few feet away. The unexpected sound is the signal for an abrupt interruption of the concert. With only the sighing pine organ undisturbed, I rest awhile on the grass, with water gurgling through the blades around my feet. Gradually the marsh comes to life again, with twinks from hyla, rattles from crickets, frogs, and chuckles from leopards, gradually taking their places in the throbbing night life around me.

By walking cautiously, I can approach the hyla on their grassy perches. They are clinging with their heads skyward, singing for the pure joy of being alive. Most refreshing to see, this enthusiasm of theirs. I rather hesitate to interrupt their singing by taking them into captivity.

but I know that when I leave the marsh with two dozen frogs, the din from their tiny throats will not be lessened by a whit. So I take a few specimens and splash my way out of the water to the road, as the jira bounce against my hip in a collecting bag, a few distant peeps tell me that the frogs have recovered their poise, and will sing all night if I just let them. And I will.

Wipe meat with a damp cloth. Sprinkle with salt, allowing 1-2 teaspoon for each pound. Place the roast in an open pan without adding any water and with the fat side up. Insert the meat thermometer so that the bulb reaches the center of the flesh part. Do not allow the bulb to touch either fat or bone. As the fat melts and cooks out, it will baste the meat. Place the meat in a hot oven (500 degrees F.) for 20 to 30 minutes until lightly browned. Reduce the temperature to about 300 degrees F., and continue cooking until the roast has reached the desired degree of doneness. The meat thermometer will register 140 degrees F. for a rare roast, 160 degrees F. for a medium-rare roast, and 180 degrees F. for a well-done roast. Allow 15 minutes to the pound to be rare, 22 minutes to the pound to be medium, and 30 minutes to the pound to be well done. Garnish with potatoes and surround with browned potatoes.

Ginger Muffins. Two cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 3 beaten eggs, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon ginger, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup molasses, 1-2 cup milk, 4 tablespoons shortening, 2-3 cup grated cheese.

Mix and add dry ingredients. Beat egg and add molasses and milk. Combine with dry ingredients. Add melted shortening and grated cheese. Bake in muffin pans 15 minutes at 350 to 375 degrees F. Makes 12 large muffins.

Sausage Loaf. One and one-half pounds sausage, 1-2 cup milk, 1-2 cups crumbs, 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion, 2 tablespoons catsup, 2 tablespoons horseradish, 1-2 tablespoon prepared mustard, 1 egg.

Mix in order listed. Place in a loaf pan and bake in moderate oven 1-2 hours. Serve with tomato sauce.

Homesaker's Joy Cake. One cup sugar, 2 cups cake flour, 2 tablespoons baking powder, 2 egg whites, butter, 1-2 cup milk, 1-2 teaspoon lemon extract, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla.

Sift sugar, flour and baking powder together. Place egg whites in measuring cup. Fill with soft butter to one-half full. Fill remainder of cup with milk. Add to flour mixture in bowl with flavorings. Beat about 4 minutes. Bake in two layers at 375 degrees F. for 20 or 25 minutes. Frost with Apple icing.

Apple Icing. Grate one red apple, add juice of 1-2 lemon, 1 tablespoon melted butter and Confectioners' sugar to spread.

Braised Short Ribs of Beef with Vegetables. Three pounds short ribs of beef, 8 medium-sized potatoes, 4 large onions, 4 turnips, 8 medium-sized carrots, 3 teaspoons salt, 3-4 teaspoon pepper.

Wipe the meat with a damp cloth, rub with salt and pepper, place in roaster and sear for 30 minutes in a hot oven (500 degrees F.), reduce temperature to 325 degrees F., or moderate. Add 2 cups water, cover closely and bake 1 hour, then add whole potatoes pared, carrots cut in halves, onions and turnips quartered. Continue cooking until vegetables are tender. Serve meat on platter garnished with vegetables. Serves 6 to 8.

Krispy Horseradish Sauce. Four tablespoons butter, 12 crackers rolled fine, 1-4 cup milk, 3 teaspoons sugar, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons horseradish.

Melt butter in saucepan, add crackers and stir until light yellow. Stir in milk very carefully. Add sugar, seasoning and horseradish. Cook for about 2 or 3 minutes after all ingredients have been added. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Stylish Meat Balls. One and one-half pounds ground beef, 1-2 cup uncooked rice, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 1 can tomato soup, 1-2 can water, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper.

Mix meat, rice and seasonings. Shape into small balls and drop into tomato soup, to which water, onion and green pepper have been added. Cook slowly for 40 minutes. Serve on hot plate with tomato sauce over them.

Polka Dot Salad. One-half cup white cabbage, 1 cup fresh coconut, 1 cup blanched shredded almonds, 1-8 cup finely cut pimientos. Toss all ingredients together. Moisten with mayonnaise. Pile mound-like on serving plate. Surround with hearts of lettuce.

Chow Mein. Three tablespoons bacon drippings, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup diced raw pork or veal, 1-2 cup fine cut onions, 1-2 cups celery, diced, 1-2 cup water, 1 can Chinese vegetables.

Thickening: Three tablespoons cornstarch, 3 tablespoons soy sauce, 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Heat bacon drippings, add salt, meat and onions, stir constantly and cook rapidly until meat is well seared. Add celery and water. Cover and cook 5 minutes. Add drained Chinese vegetables. Heat thoroughly. Mix thickening ingredients, add to chop suey and cook for a few minutes.

Kaiserling Rice Dessert. One pint boiling water, 1 package raspberry flavored gelatin, 1-2 cup rice, 1-2 cups boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 tablespoons gelatin, 1-2 cup cream, whipped, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla.

Add boiling water to raspberry gelatin and stir well. Cool and pour into an 8-inch pudding mold. Cook rice in boiling water (to which salt has been added) for 30 minutes, drain. Soak gelatin in cold milk and add to the hot rice. Let stand for several hours in refrigerator until firm. Turn out onto a serving platter. Serve with raspberry sauce made as follows:

Dissolve 1 teaspoon cream of tartar in 1 cup canned raspberry juice. Add 4 teaspoons cooking sherry or lemon juice. Cook for 10 minutes.

Planked Steak. One Porterhouse steak (2 inches thick), 6 potatoes, 6 onions, 1 cup diced carrots, 2 cups spinach.

Trim steak. Sear on both sides in the broiler. Broil for about 20 minutes. Place the steak on an oiled plank. Arrange the cooked buttered onions and carrots placed in nests of spinach around steak. Then arrange a border of mashed potatoes. Brush slightly with beaten egg. Place the plank in the oven until the potato border is browned. Spread steak with butter and finely chopped parsley.

Jellied Stew. One and one-half pounds lean neck of lamb, 1-2 cup milk, 1-2 cup package gelatin, 3 carrots, 1 cup chopped cooked spinach, 1-2 cup cooked elbow macaroni, 1 medium-sized onion, 1-2 cup cold water, 1-2 cups celery, diced, 1-2 cup water, 1 can Chinese vegetables.

Simmer meat in 2 cups water until tender. Put carrots and onions through food chopper and cook in as little water as possible until tender. Add vegetable liquor to meat stock and sufficient water to make one quart. Grind meat. Reheat broth and season with salt and pepper. Soak gelatin in 1-2 cup cold water and dissolve in hot broth. Cool. When partially set add rest of ingredients. Pour into wet mold and chill.

Stuffed Breast of Veal. One breast of veal, 1 cup water, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons flour, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 4 tablespoons butter or bacon drippings.

Have pocket cut in breast of veal. Wipe with a clean damp cloth and stuff with the Tricky Dressing. Tie or skewer into shape. Spread with the fat, then sprinkle with seasoning and flour. Place on a trivet in a roaster and sear 20 minutes in a hot oven (500 degrees F.). Add 1 cup water. Reduce the heat to 300 degrees Fahrenheit. Cover roaster and cook slowly, allowing 25 minutes to the pound.

Tricky Stuffing. Two eggs, 4 carrots, 2 apples, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 cups prepared bran flakes, pepper, 1-2 cup peanuts. Beat eggs light. Add grated carrots, peanuts, chopped bran flakes, salt and pepper.

Basic Ice Cream Recipe. Two cups milk, 2-3 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, pinch salt, 2 egg yolks.

Combine scalded milk, sugar, flour and salt. Stir until smooth. Cook 10 minutes. Pour boiling mixture over beaten egg yolks. Mix until smooth and chill. To each cup of this base add 1-2 pint cream, whipped and any desired flavoring.

Fine-Cut Chop Suey. Three tablespoons bacon drippings, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup water or liquid from bean sprouts, 1-2 cup fine-cut onion (if desired), 1 cup diced raw pork or veal, 1-2 cups celery, cut into small pieces, 1 can bean sprouts, drained.

Thickening. Three tablespoons corn starch, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon brown sauce, 2 tablespoons soy sauce.

Heat bacon drippings in covered saucepan or skillet over quick fire; add salt, meat and onions, stir constantly and cook rapidly until meat is well seared (4 minutes). Add celery and liquid, and cover. Cook until celery is done (4 minutes). Add bean sprouts, mix while heating thoroughly. Place thickening ingredients in bowl and mix well. Take two tablespoons of liquid from cooking mixture and stir into thickening until smooth. Add to chop suey, stirring constantly to prevent burning. Serve piping hot.

Florida Milk Sherbet. Two cups milk, 1 cup granulated sugar, 3 lemons, 3 oranges, 3 bananas.

Heat the milk and sugar until sugar is dissolved. Cool and add the lemon and orange juice and the well-ripened bananas, which have been put

...and he doesn't rely on a "candy" tooth paste!

Attractive teeth have a definite "sales" value in this highly competitive business world. In choosing a dentifrice, a young man who wants to succeed cannot sidestep the real issue: "Which tooth paste gives the best results in actual use?"

That question has a bearing on health . . . on popularity . . . on your work. For real results, don't pamper your mouth with "candy" tooth pastes which just appeal to the palate—use Pebecco, the fighting, hard-working mouth cleanser and corrective. Attractive teeth have a definite "sales" value in this highly competitive business world. In choosing a dentifrice, a young man who wants to succeed cannot sidestep the real issue: "Which tooth paste gives the best results in actual use?"

That question has a bearing on health . . . on popularity . . . on your work. For real results, don't pamper your mouth with "candy" tooth pastes which just appeal to the palate—use Pebecco, the fighting, hard-working mouth cleanser and corrective. Signatures on Dean's Letters Identified as Dead Physician's

GREENWOOD, Miss., Feb. 8.—(AP)—A jury which had previously heard a state witness charge that Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean "had been bothering" Dr. John Preston Kennedy prior to his strange 10-day fatal illness, today sat back and watched Dr. Dean's defense attorneys identify Kennedy's signature on scores of reputed love letters which he wrote to the woman physician.

Dr. Kennedy and asserting under oath that Preston had charged Dr. Dean in a dying statement with poisoning him by means of a whisky highball.

The woman physician is on trial on a murder charge.

"Ruth has been bothering me," Dr. Henry Kennedy, quoted his brother as saying when he was represented as having been reluctant to meet Dr. Dean at midnight in the Kennedy clinic for a "farewell drink" last July.

Dr. Preston Kennedy became ill the next day and died 10 days later in a Jackson (Miss.) hospital.

When the state said it would introduce love letters from Dr. Dean to Dr. Kennedy, the defense took the opportunity in cross-examination of Dr. Henry Kennedy to have him identify stacks of letters held by Dr. Dean as having been written by Kennedy.

The state was still seeking a means of identifying the signatures on its letters as Dr. Dean's and today subpoenaed two employees of the bank where she did business for the purpose of making the identification.

None of the letters had been read to the jury today and hours were consumed by the defense in handling letter after letter to Henry Kennedy.

Over and over defense attorney J. J. Breland said:

"Doctor, I ask you whose handwriting that is."

And over and over, scanning the pages of the letters casually, Henry Kennedy replied: "Preston's."

The missives ranged in length from one to nine pages and more than 125 during the process, Mrs. Bessie Barry Kennedy, divorced wife of the dead surgeon, made her first appearance in court since the start of testimony but quickly retired to the district attorney's office.

Dr. Dean, the defendant, her steady calm unbroken after nearly two weeks in the courtroom, sat relaxed and expressionless in her chair.

Excitement stirred the court momentarily shortly before noon when Juror R. B. Blanchard, who had acute indigestion last Saturday, interrupted the proceeding and holding his hand to his heart, said he was ill again. The jury was retired while Blanchard was treated by a physician for nausea.

Oscar Strauss Jr., advertising manager of the city planning commission, was elected president of the Atlanta Advertising Club at its luncheon meeting Thursday at the Frances Virginia tea room.

Russell Fay, Claud Grizzard and Sam Dull were elected vice presidents; Howard Haire, sergeant-at-arms; Wade Murrah, treasurer; and Manget Davis, secretary. The following directors were named: Charlton Keen, retiring president; J. S. Roberts, Bob Martin Jr., Mel Schwartz, Bruce McLean, Virginia Goudy, Mae Eckford, Adel Anderson and Sarah Barnes.

Mr. Keen, in his report of activities of the past year, showed that the club's finances were in good shape. He mentioned the accomplishments of the organization, including its letter writing contest, and the numerous constructive addresses which were made at meetings by noted authorities in various lines of advertising.

He stressed the need of the closest co-operation in the future, and after the election of Mr. Strauss, he pledged his full co-operation.

Mr. Strauss said that it was remarkable that Mr. Keen should have carried the club through one of the most terrible business conditions in business history, and not only kept it intact, but kept improving its influences. He pledged himself to carry on the work inaugurated by Mr. Keen.

At the conclusion of his talk, the members voted their thanks to the retiring president for his splendid record in office.

The meeting was one of the best attended ever held by the organization. Notables in the local advertising field representing all its activities were present.

WHITE COLLAR GROUP IN SECOND MEETING

More than 100 members of the Atlanta chapter of the White Collar Workers of America met in the city auditorium Thursday night to hear several speakers deliver the lack of interest of industrialists in the clerk, bookkeeper, salesman and others of the "white-collar" class.

The meeting, called by J. D. Wilson, organizer of the nation-wide movement, was the second since the chapter's organization. Speakers included Dr. Aubrey F. Hess, pastor of the United Liberal Unitarian church; J. Ira Harrelson, president of the board of education; John C. White, former councilman; Thomas L. Slapser, of the federation of trades, and Mr. Wilson.

Mr. Wilson announced during the meeting that chapters are being formed in other cities and predicted "a nation-wide response to this movement to secure justice for the backbone of civilization."

ROOSEVELT BACKS COTTON CUT BILL

Bankhead Redrafts Measure for Action After White House Approves.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(P)—A reiteration of White House and farm administration approval of the Bankhead bill's principles today brought compulsory control of cotton production for this year a little nearer actuality.

Senator Bankhead, democrat, Alabama, author of the measure, and his brother, Representative Bankhead, also an Alabama democrat, conferred with President Roosevelt. Afterwards they said they had again received the president's approval. The president two weeks ago indicated that he believed such a measure might be necessary.

Secretary Wallace yesterday lent his support to the Bankhead measure in a statement which declared that results of a poll of southern farmers indicated they wanted compulsory control.

Bankhead Kept Busy.
Senator Bankhead spent part of the day with some of the agriculture department's experts redrafting the measure and writing into it administrative provisions.

The secretary declared at his press conference today that he favored the voluntary democratic approach of the present production control plan, but he also told Senator Bankhead that if it was clear that the producers wanted it we should not deprive them of the centralizing power of the government.

When asked about the disadvantages of the compulsory plan and whether he believed southern farmers had thought the program through, Wallace replied with a Biblical quotation, whose purport was that if the people want kings they should have them, but they should also remember the drawbacks.

Objections Foreseen.
Objections which he foresaw to the program included the possibility of cotton being processed at night in bootlegging, and the reaction of farmers who would be unable to market cotton grown in excess of their quotas because of favorable weather conditions.

"Some of the less intelligent farmers might get into strange states of mind," he said.

"I had hoped we would not get into government compulsion but as long as the south wants it we will go ahead. The only point in my mind is, do they realize what it means?"

He added he hoped "producers of other commodities will hold off until they see how this plan works in the south." Cotton is an ideal crop to experiment with, Wallace said, because it must all pass through a bottle-neck at the gin.

The Bankhead bill would limit the amount of cotton marketed in the 1934-35 season to 9,000,000 bales through a tax of 12 cents a pound on all ginned in excess of that quota.

Stop Laxatives— Give Your Bile A Break

Believe it or not, there is a way to treat constipation without common laxatives. Mother Nature has endowed you with a bile duct that is the best of all laxatives—bile from your liver. Constipation is often caused by insufficient bile flow, which robs you of a powerful natural laxative, and a natural antidote to the harmful effects of violent purging laxatives but a gentle liver medicine that acts to stimulate your flow of bile to a normal rate.

No More Piles You Can End Your Awful Misery Quick Without Cutting or Salves

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

This is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause—and not one minute before. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard, sold by good druggists everywhere, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Jacobs' HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard, sold by good druggists everywhere, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(P)—Two federal departments were working to get the U. S. navy to plan to encourage development of a commercial transoceanic airship service.

Acting Secretary Henry L. Roosevelt, of the commerce department, the navy was ready to co-operate with the commerce department on a program of commercial airship construction if public works administration funds were made available.

When questioned by reporters, public works officials pointed out that at the present time the public works fund was so depleted that advance of a sum necessary for such a venture would be impossible.

CONTRACT "RING" HINTED IN PROBE

The CWA should be liquidated at the earliest possible moment. There should be no temporizing with those who demand its continuance. By the admission of its own officials, it is saturated with corruption, and it is a moneyed machine with political favoritism that there is no hope of its being reformed.

It was in the newspaper interview which Mr. Hopkins (Harry L. Hopkins, civil works administrator) had with the newspaper correspondent on November 22 that the opinion was expressed that: "If the CWA continued, the politicians will find a way to make it an almost insurmountable obstacle to the public works program."

The pamphlet said that if those on CWA pay rolls could not find employment in private industry or in the public works program they should be returned to relief rolls.

"If this administration cannot successfully shoulder the responsibility of conducting an organization dedicated to square dealing among the nation's needy, involving the expenditure of over $10,000,000 a day, without the graft and discrimination which marks that organization, the Civil Works Administration, then it should disavow the responsibility altogether and pass the care of the needy back to local and state agencies which handled the situation in the first place."

The pamphlet attacked the Roosevelt administration policies, economic and financial, as an impediment to business recovery.

F. D. R. MAPS PLAN ON SUGAR CONTROL

The joint interests of the two countries.

To compensate consumers for the processing tax on sugar, the president proposed that a proportionate reduction be made in the sugar tariff.

Text Message.
"To the congress:
"Steadily increasing sugar production in the continental United States and in insular regions has created a price and marketing situation prejudicial to virtually every interested farmer in many areas are threatened with low prices for their beets and cane, and Cuban purchases of our goods have been steadily declining."

There is a school of thought which believes that sugar ought to be on the free list. This belief is based on the high cost of sugar to the American consuming public.

The annual gross value of the sugar crop to American beet and cane growers is approximately $80,000,000. Those who believe in the free importation of sugar say that the two cents a pound tariff is levied upon the product is a burden upon the consumer that costs our consuming public every year more than $200,000,000 to afford this protection.

Free Listing Not Urged.
"I do not at this time recommend placing sugar on the free list. I feel that we ought first to try out a system of quotas with the three-fold object of keeping down the price of sugar to consumers, of providing for the retention of beet and cane farming within our continental limits, and also to provide against further expansion of this necessarily expensive industry."

"Consumers have not benefited from the disorganized state of sugar production here and in the insular regions. Both the import tariff and cost of distribution, which together account for the major portion of the consumer's price for sugar, have remained relatively constant during the past three years."

This situation clearly calls for remedial action. I believe that we can increase the returns to our own farmers, contribute to the economic rehabilitation of Cuba, provide adequate quotas for the Philippines, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, and at the same time prevent higher prices to our own consumers."

Sacrifice Necessary.
"The problem is difficult but can be solved if it is met squarely and if small temporary gains are sacrificed to ultimate general advantage."

"The objective may be attained most readily through amendment of existing legislation. The agricultural adjustment act should be amended to make sugar beets and sugar cane basic agricultural commodities. It then will be possible to collect a process-

Three New Screen Attractions For Local Theatergoers Today

Three important new pictures are to be seen on local screens for the first time today.

Eugene O'Neill's powerful drama of an American negro who reverts to savagery when placed in jungle surroundings, "Emperor Jones," is at Loew's Grand, with Paul Robeson in the title role.

The Fox has a splendid comedy, "Six of a Kind," the six being W. C. Fields, Charles Ruggles, Mary Boland, Alison Skipworth and George Burns and Gracie Allen.

The Fox has a splendid comedy, "Six of a Kind," the six being W. C. Fields, Charles Ruggles, Mary Boland, Alison Skipworth and George Burns and Gracie Allen.

Edward G. Robinson is at the Paramount in "Dark Hazard," with Genevieve Tobin and Glenda Farrell heading the support.

At Loew's Grand.
Paul Robeson, distinguished negro actor, makes his first screen appearance in "Emperor Jones," Eugene O'Neill's famous play of negro superstition and fear, which starts today at Loew's Grand theater. It has been adapted to the screen by DuBois Heyward, whose "Porgy" is one of the most notable of southern novels.

Robeson is seen as an American Pullman porter. Shrewdness quickly teaches him how to profit. Jones grows more and more predatory and fearless, and presently, in a poolroom fight, he kills a negro rival. For this he is sentenced to the chain gang.

Here, sweating and beaten, he raises his voice in that famous negro song, "Water Boy." His song is interrupted by a brutal guard. In savage fury Jones strikes, killing his assailant and flees. Chance brings him to an obscure island in the Caribbean sea. Here, by daring and force, he quickly establishes himself head man of the island.

Then one morning Jones awakes to find his palace deserted. All his subjects have vanished into the jungle. He does not care. He is rich, and the jungle is his. He sets out to traverse the jungle at night. As he leaves the palace, the first faint beats of a tom-tom sound. Graciously Jones reverts to the savagery of his ancestors. Memories of injustice and mistreatment sear his crazed mind and reduce him to a frenzied howl. The victim of the men he has robbed and exploited.

At the Fox.
Once or twice a year a really funny picture emerges from Hollywood. They usually come comparatively unheralded. Such a picture is "Six of a Kind," that opens its week's run at the Fox theater today. It is so funny that audiences roar with laughter until their sides ache, until they almost feel embarrassed at the "Six of a Kind."

REDWOOD CITY, Cal., Feb. 8.—(UP)—Urberto Giusti, young opera impresario, who fatally shot his radio and opera singer sweetheart, Emilia De Prato, when she spurned his offer of marriage, was convicted by a jury today of first-degree murder. Leniency was recommended, making a life sentence mandatory.

The jury deliberated less than two and one-half hours. Eleven married women and one man heard Giusti's plea that he shot the "Songbird" of South San Francisco accidentally as he sought to commit suicide, and the state's charge that he killed her deliberately when she refused to marry him because she wished to go to New York for a tryout with the Metropolitan Opera Company.

ADVANCE SALES HEAVY FOR TALLEY CONCERT

Advance ticket sales for the concert at the Capitol theater next Sunday afternoon by Marion Talley indicate a tremendous crowd to hear the young American soprano who was such a sensation during her connection with the Metropolitan Opera Company, four years ago. The box office at the Capitol piano company on North Broad street has witnessed a steady stream of patrons since it opened on Wednesday morning. The concert is sponsored by the Debutante Club and is one of the Celebrity Series offered here this season by the Alhambra Lyceum Bureau.

Miss Talley, who retired unexpectedly to her Kansas farm four years ago after three seasons of phenomenal success with the Metropolitan and on the concert stage, has returned to the concert field as unexpectedly this season. Critics who have heard her state that her voice is even finer than it was four years ago, with an added depth and power which maturity and the healthy open life on the farm have given her. It retains, however, all the glorious purity of tone which made her so sensational a success before.

Miss Talley sang in Atlanta on a number of occasions in the past years. She sang several roles with the Metropolitan, including her famous debut role of Gilda in "Rigoletto," and also appeared in concert at the auditorium.

Her recital on Sunday afternoon will draw many music lovers from out of town, and it is expected that she will again receive one of those enthusiastic receptions which marked her career of old.

Efforts To Defy Depression Behind Present Paris Riots

Refusal To Yield To Depressive Processes Has Built Up Economic Load in Nation.

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER, Associated Press Financial Editor, Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—The unrest in France has its roots, in the opinion of financial authorities familiar with French conditions, in the refusal of that republic to capitulate with the depression.

Desperate efforts to maintain the economic structure of the boom days have kept the cost of living high, and tax burdens remain crushing. Incomes have dwindled.

The flare-up is regarded primarily as another manifestation of the dilemma of continued high output with persistently shrinking income. French business and financial statistics have seemed until recently to indicate that the world-wide spell of hard times was dealing lightly with France, but students of international finance say

"Doo-Mayer" Is Way To Pronounce the Name

PARIS, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Gaston Doumergue, new premier of France, pronounces his last name in two syllables: "Doo-mayer."

The statistics have failed to reveal the whole story. Unemployment statistics for France have at no time presented an alarming picture, but the droves of migratory workers who have been coming annually into France from border countries for seasonal work have been excluded. Furthermore, France is, to a large extent, a country of small family enterprises, the status of which does not readily appear in statistical surveys.

It is also well known that the Gauls temper their reactions to economic adversity lightly. When the French were pleading for currency stabilization at the London economic conference last summer, however, members of American and other delegations were astonished to hear Frenchmen assert informally in the corridors of the conference that they were shocked to French economic stability would bring fascist and radical movements in France threatening extreme violence.

One Frenchman was then heard privately to expostulate: "Do you think if we had 2,000,000 or more unemployed workers in France on bare subsistence dole as in England, that they would sit quietly about on park benches as they do here? Of course not, they would be rioting."

confer with all groups and view points.

"The ministry will be formed tomorrow morning without fail," said Secretary Mallerne after seeing Doumergue.

It was known, however, that parties in the chamber of deputies remained skittish about throwing their full weight behind the "political truce" the premier-elect asked.

For example, radicals were former Premier Edouard Herriot, a radical socialist leader, to have the former's affairs portfolio, while the moderate worked for former Premier Andre Tardieu.

As a result, it was predicted, neither may get the job.

The forthcoming government, also, already had one interpellation on hand—that of Deputy Besson, who asked for "light" on its "general and monetary policy."

As part of M. Doumergue's desire to form an absolutely non-political cabinet, M. Herriot told the radicals, the premier-elect is planning to offer a seat to the socialist leader, Leon Blum.

Except for the disorders near the Madeleine, Paris was calm tonight. Thousands of sightseers visited the Cafe Weber, where a field hospital was set up to care for those hurt in the riots, the Rue Royale, a leading "battleground" in the demonstrations, and the ministry of marine, whose first floor the surly mobs sacked Tuesday.

Those places now are historic. Heavy forces of mounted guards and police, armed with rifles, were stationed at strategic points, but had little to do.

Doumergue announced as his objective a government of "ages"—or "elder statesmen"—thoroughly experienced, like himself, in statecraft.

"The urgency of the hour does not permit me to form any sort of ministry other than one of a political truce, composed of eminent men well versed in statecraft," he said.

A dozen former premiers are available for posts in the new cabinet, a successor to that of Edouard Daladier, which was wrecked on the rocks of suspicion, growing out of the $40,000,000 Bayonne railway fiasco, and economic maladjustments.

Observers listed the special capacities of these former leaders as follows:

Andre Tardieu and Joseph Paul-Boncour, foreign affairs; Herriot, education; Pierre Etienne Flandin and Joseph Caillaux, finance; Pierre Laval, interior; Louis Barthelemy and Alexandre Millerand, justice, and Jules Steeg and Albert Sarraut, colonies.

Many deputies expressed the belief that Daladier and Camille Chautemps would not be called, for they headed cabinets that fell on bitter charges of corruption in connection with the Bayonne railway fiasco.

General Maxime Weygand was spoken of as a possible minister of war.

LIQUOR TAXES BRING $127,006,015 TO U. S.

Seventeen States Paid Million or More Each, Federal Data Show.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Seventeen states were shown by the internal revenue bureau today to have paid more than a million dollars each in liquor taxes last year. Total collections amounted to $127,006,015.

New York contributed the largest amount, $27,434,971. Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Illinois were only other states which paid more than ten millions.

States paying more than a million included Missouri, $6,037,303; Maryland, including District of Columbia, $4,347,372; Kentucky, $3,451,251, and Louisiana, $1,862,723.

Whisky and distilled spirits after fermented malt liquors, which went into effect with the legalization of beer, April, brought in, $98,653,245. Whisky and distilled spirits after fermented malt liquors paid $1,862,723.

Taxes collected in other states included: Alabama, $1,648,475; Delaware, $24,326; Florida, $229,250; Mississippi, $13,438; North Carolina, $73,000; South Carolina, $57,411, and Virginia, $111,163.

12 HOSIERY STRIKERS IN JAIL FOR CONTEMPT

HARRIMAN, Tenn., Feb. 8.—(AP)—For the second time in two weeks 12 Harriman hosiery mill strikers were back in jail at Kingston today on charges of violating a mill injunction against picketing.

Those rearrested included Floyd Johnson, president of the textile union in Harriman.

Doumergue demanded the dissolution of parliament and the right to rule by decree if necessary.

"If the chamber itself asks the chiefs of each big party and the former premiers to meet and declare a truce," Doumergue insisted, "order will quickly return."

It was learned today that one factor forcing the resignation of Premier Daladier's ministry was his demand that martial law be declared to curb the rioting.

President Lebrun refused. Later National Union veterans told M. Lebrun they were opposed to anti-police demonstrations Tuesday, when 10 were fatally wounded by gunfire, but proposed to riot, with arms, Wednesday.

Daladier's withdrawal satisfied them, and last night's widespread skirmishes involved communists and hoodlums.

M. Doumergue was given quarters in the foreign office once occupied by the late Aristide Briand, many times the French premier. Without delay he started the perils of cabinet-forming task.

From a conference with M. Lebrun he went to pay the traditional calls on the presidents of the chamber and senate. His route became a triumphal march; everywhere he was enthusiastically acclaimed like a Cincinnatus, called from a plow to save his country.

"Vive la France" was the cry that came time after time from happy crowds that followed the automobile.

Gives Up Job. In becoming premier the well-loved Doumergue gives up the directorship of the Canal de Suez, a position with a salary reputed to be between $12,000 and $24,000 annually.

He is not rich, and the change means a sacrifice.

He relinquishes, too, the peace and rest he enjoyed at his country home in southern France after spending more than half of his 71 years in the service of his country.

There will be compensations—the honor of being chosen the "savior" of France and the pleasure of performing this distinction with his wife, whom he married immediately on the expiration of his presidential term in 1931, at the age of 68.

When he entered the presidency in 1925 he was the only bachelor and Protestant in French history to be in that office.

As president he was an individualist—once he created a sensation by attending a formal afternoon function wearing white gloves and no spat—opposition criticism by committing many death sentences. He hates war; he was one of the first to approve the Kellogg "Refused First Call."

The veteran, called by telephone from Paris, refused at first yesterday to accept President Lebrun's invitation to succeed Edouard Daladier.

But he was prevailed upon to step into the breach and, his mind made up, prepared at once to leave for Paris.

As his train approached the capital the street battles were waning, but only after 12 had been killed and thousands wounded, damage had been done over a wide area in the heart of Paris, including the famous Place de la Concorde, the Rue Royale, the Boulevards St. Germain and Des Capucines.

Socialists were calling for further demonstrations and describing the Daladier government "a fascist threat to liberty" and its withdrawal "a surrender to reactionaries."

The French federation of labor, aroused by economic stress arising from unemployment, announced a 24-hour strike would begin Monday to tie up communications and trade services.

LEGISLATURES STUDY EXPENSES OF STATES

South Carolina and Virginia Solons Seek To Cut Revenues.

By the Associated Press. Reductions in governmental expenses occupied the legislatures of Virginia and South Carolina yesterday.

While the Virginia house of delegates was listening to a proposal to cut the number of commonwealth attorneys by two-thirds, the South Carolina house took another whack at the highway department and the senate gave final approval to a measure to lower interest rates by 1 per cent.

The Virginia house also took a step to lower the state's revenues by enacting the bill trimming the automobile license tax rate from 70 to 40 cents a hundred pounds.

In the upper branch of the South Carolina legislature a bill to raise the pay of school teachers 10 per cent was sent to a third reading. The interest rate bill, already approved by the senate and sent to the house for concurrence, would lower the contract rate from 8 to 7 per cent, and the ordinary legal rate from 7 to 6 per cent.

After a member charged that employees of a group of Aiken county textile mills were treating employees "like cattle," the senate commerce and manufactures committee ordered a hearing on a resolution to investigate the charges against the operators in the South Carolina center.

By a one-vote majority—68 to 67—the lower house of the Mississippi legislature refused to reconsider the vote by which it defeated an administration-approved constitutional convention bill Wednesday night.

East Point To Get New $50,000 Bank

Formation of a new $50,000 capital bank in East Point, to serve the residents of Hapeville and College Park also, was announced Thursday night by George E. Longino, chairman of the Fulton county board of commissioners, who will be the president of the new institution.

The bank will have $12,500 surplus and will operate under the federal deposit guarantee as a state bank. The bank will open within 60 days, Mr. Longino said. More than 400 of the 500 shares of stock have already been sold. Longino has had many years' experience in banking, having managed branches of Atlanta banks in East Point and College Park.

"East Point has not had a bank for nearly two years and the three communities are in need of one. I think that now is the most opportune time to organize a new institution because conditions are much better and the need for a bank is more pressing," said Longino.

MCCRODY STORES CORP. BEING REORGANIZED

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—A plan for the reorganization of the McCrody Stores Corporation, with a branch in Atlanta, based on arrangements with a syndicate whereby $2,000,000 in cash would be raised through the sale of stock to the syndicate, was disclosed here today. C. T. Green, president, in a letter sent yesterday to creditors of McCrody Stores, urged prompt approval of the reorganization plan.

The report states that under the agreement the syndicate would buy stock of the McCrody Stores Corporation for $1,500,000 cash and would buy additional stock for $500,000 to the extent that such additional stock was not bought by present holders of preferred and common stock. Thereafter the syndicate would buy 50 cents on the dollar new debentures turned in by creditors after the company had retired $2,000,000 principal amount of such debentures surrendered in accordance with the reorganization plan.

PRISON CONTRACT REVISED BY U. S.

New Document Referred to State Department of Law for Study.

A new contract for the construction of the proposed new state prison in Tattall county was received by Governor Eugene Talmadge Thursday from Washington and referred to the state department of law for study.

The new contract provides that the prison shall be built with $1,000,000 borrowed from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the construction to be handled by the federal government and the state paying a rental of $80,000 a year until the $1,000,000 has been repaid and the institution then becoming the property of the state.

Governor Talmadge received the voluminous document from Hugh Howell, special representative of the state in the negotiations for the new prison. The governor said that, although he had not studied the contract, he understood that the public works administration still would have charge of the project but using RFC instead of PWA funds.

Attorney-General M. J. Yeomans said he would be several days before his department would be able to pass on the contract.

What She Really Had Was "Acid Stomach" Easily Corrected

Authorities now tell us that one of the frequent penalties of middle-age is acid stomach. A rebellion of the stomach, after years of faulty diet.

If you have Acid Stomach, you can easily trace it. Headaches, stomach pains after eating, "gas," "upsets," nausea are the usual indications.

To get rid of it, all you need do is this: Take 2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed. Or—you can take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets; substituting one tablet for each teaspoonful of the liquid and get the same result.

Try It—You Will Be Amazed

Try this and, chances are, it will make a great difference in your life. For this small dosage of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia acts to neutralize the stomach acids that cause your distress.

Widespread Adoption of Plan To Cut Interest Rates Seen

By SAM BLEDSOE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's call for a general lowering of interest rates on the $250,000,000 of public and private debts in this country was expected tonight to result in a concerted move to that end both in and out of the government.

Mr. Roosevelt's view that many creditors would have more assurance of getting their principal if they reduced the interest charge may provide the needed impetus to pass pending legislation.

Bills before the senate—which have house approval already—would enable corporations and municipalities or other political subdivisions of states to scale down the principal and interest of their debts through an agreement with the majority of their creditors.

Legislation is already in effect which enables the individual to re-arrange his debt and interest rates through a pact with the majority of those he owes and to give similar help to railroads. There have been complaints that these laws have not been particularly effective and that they need strengthening.

The president in letting it be known that he thought the debtor was paying too much on obligations contracted in better times, did not say what he believed was a fair rate nor did he specify particular charges that he regarded as too high.

But he did indicate that he felt strongly that the debt reorganization problem must be worked out and suggested two methods.

One was on a voluntary basis and would enable the debtor to get relief after a majority of the creditors—ranging from 65 to 70 per cent perhaps—agreed that some way to ease the strain was necessary. This is in line with bills passed and pending.

Among the debts mentioned were those owed by foreign nations, but it was not made clear whether he had war debts in mind. He has promised some communications to congress on the subject.

The maximum interest Britain pays on its debt, treasury officials said, is 3 1/2 per cent. France was assessed only 2 per cent, and Italy one-eighth of one per cent.

There was speculation after Mr. Roosevelt's declaration as to whether it might not indicate an impending effort to lower the charges upon the government's long-term indebtedness.

In this connection, it was recalled that the treasury had already refinanced at a lower interest rate about $800,000,000 in Fourth Liberty Loan bonds. Approximately $1,500,000,000 of the remainder matures on April 15. On the next day about $18,000,000 in other bonds matures and on May 2 another quarter of a billion.

THREE NEGROES FINED IN CWA WORK TROUBLE

Three negro CWA workers were fined $10 and costs each Thursday afternoon by Recorder John L. Cone, and 13 others were dismissed after the court heard testimony of an alleged plot to incite trouble on a CWA project. Alleged ringleaders who were fined were J. D. Tyler, William Julks and Frank Clark.

The 13 negroes were arrested as the result of the circulation of a petition asking the dismissal of Jack Anderson, the foreman. CWA officials Thursday night would not say whether the men freed in police court would be returned to their work.

WOMAN CONVICTED AT MURDER TRIAL

Life Sentence for Mrs. Sam Wynn for Killing at Dexter, Ga.

DUBLIN, Ga., Feb. 8.—(P)—Convicted on a charge of murder, Mrs. Sam Wynn, 37, today was sentenced to life imprisonment for the slaying of Mrs. J. E. Burns in the postoffice at Dexter, Ga., last October 7.

Mrs. Wynn broke into the jury room after the verdict of guilty, with a recommendation for mercy, which automatically carries a life sentence.

After receiving the jury's report, Solicitor-General U. A. Merritt announced he would try the dead woman's husband, also under indictment on a charge of murder in the case, at the next term of court. Burns was indicted jointly with Mrs. Wynn.

Defense attorneys filed notice of an appeal and Judge J. L. Kent, presiding, set March 30 for arguments of the motion.

Mrs. Wynn, whose first trial resulted in a deadlocked jury, told jurors following her arrest that she fired in self-defense after Mrs. Burns had drawn a gun. No gun was found on Mrs. Burns, who was struck three times.

In a further statement to the officers, Mrs. Wynn was quoted as saying Mrs. Burns was jealous of her and had charged her with breaking up the Burns home. At the first trial a defense witness testified that on the day before the slaying Mrs. Burns had said she was "going to Dexter and wind it up" with Mrs. Wynn.

Mrs. Wynn, in an unsworn statement, said she had been told that Mrs. Burns was out to get her, and that she believed her life was in danger when she opened fire as they met in the Dexter postoffice.

On the day of the killing Mrs. Wynn said that as Mrs. Burns approached, the latter had her hand in her bosom.

"Stick 'Em Up Yourself, You Egg," Retort Effective To Bank Robber

HINESVILLE, Ga., Feb. 8.—(P)—The casual but sudden appearance of two Hinesville youths, both of whom refused to take a command "stick 'em up, boys," seriously, probably accounts for why a band of professional bank robbers got only $500 when they blew open the main vault of the Hinesville bank here some time during last night.

The youths were on their way home about midnight, when, without warning, a tall man abruptly appeared from behind the bank with a gun.

"All right, boys, stick 'em up," was his command.

"Stick 'em up yourself, you big egg," was the retort to what both boys thought was a practical joke of some sort. They continued on their way.

This morning, when employees entered the bank they discovered the main vault had been blown open with the aid of an acetylene torch. About $500 in silver had been stolen. The silver money was in the outer main vault. It was apparent that the robbers had been frightened away before they could continue their work to get into the paper currency vault. This section of the vault was untouched. A tank of oxygen used by welders, buckets of water and canvas were found on the floor of the bank.

About 12 o'clock last night an automobile was seen on the highway carrying a tank, similar to the one found, on the bumper. With these clues authorities are making an extensive search for the robbers. The bank's loss is covered by insurance.

The question is how we should deal with liquor as an economic question, and use it to relieve the sore burdens of our taxpayers," said Mayor Key. "My contention is that the state should control the sale of liquor, and that all profits from the business should go into the public treasury. This is the only way in which we can have effective control and economic benefit from a traffic which always has existed and always will exist."

State action also is required for an effective sales tax, the mayor said. "No city can have a sales tax," he pointed out. "It would run business to the country and would build up its suburbs at the expense of the city property. The state is the smallest integer that can deal with this tax, and there is an imperative reason why it should do so."

"Our federal government sold $22,000,000,000 of securities in the World War, and is selling $10,000,000,000 now. Our cities, counties and states have issued billions more of securities. All of these are non-taxable. In addition, there are billions in intangible property which cannot be reached by the ad valorem tax."

"Real property and certain types of personal property are therefore carrying the entire load. The only remedy is to adopt sales taxes, income taxes and inheritance taxes, which will spread the load."

"Our governments must come to this solution."

STATE SALES TAX ADVOCATED BY KEY

Mayor Also Asks Dry Law Changes in West Point Speech.

WEST POINT, Ga., Feb. 8.—Modification of Georgia's bone-dry laws, enactment of a state sales tax to relieve the burden on real property, and enthusiastic support for President Roosevelt's recovery program were urged by Mayor James L. Key in an address delivered Thursday before the Rotary Club here.

Georgia Weekly Press Editors To Meet in Macon Next Saturday

MACON, Ga., Feb. 8.—Editors of weekly newspapers from all parts of the state will gather at the Hotel Dempsey here Saturday for the first annual meeting of the Georgia Newspaper Alliance.

The meeting will be presided over by Jere Moore, editor of the Milledgeville Union-Recorder, chairman of the alliance, and several important business matters, including election of a chairman and secretary for 1934, will be taken up.

Chairman Moore will report upon the progress made by the alliance, embracing practically every leading weekly in the state, and a new board of control, to be composed of a member from each district, will be put in charge with election of the members by editors in the various districts.

Three editors will be elected by the board to form the executive committee which will be responsible for the operation of the alliance during the forthcoming year.

Other matters of vital interest to the weekly press of the state will be taken up, including new ideas on advertising, the codes affecting newspapers, and the Goodwin plan upon which most newspapers have been contacted, Mr. Moore said in his official notice.

A constitution and by-laws of the alliance will be presented to the members for ratification at the meeting.

The session will open at the Hotel Dempsey at 9:30 o'clock, eastern standard time, and the body will launch immediately into the program of business.

The meeting will be terminated early Saturday afternoon, Chairman Moore predicted, allowing editors sufficient time to return to their homes Saturday night.

Program for the meeting was tentatively sketched by the executive committee in a meeting in the central offices in Atlanta on January 27, but the session is expected to turn into a round-table discussion of weekly newspaper problems affected by the alliance in an effort to make more uniform the progress of weeklies all over the state.

Culbertson on Contract

A Silly Psychic

By ELY CULBERTSON
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Contract bridge bidding has its fads and fashions. A few years ago psychic bids, so called, were extremely popular. Recently they have fallen into comparative disuse, although some very fine players still find the right use of psychic bids effective. A psychic or bluff bid has, of course, as its purpose preventing opponents from reaching a game or slam contract, or, failing that, making it difficult for them to select the right suit in which to play the hand. Rightly speaking, a psychic, to be effective, must have as a basis an escape suit which, though it may be deficient in honors, is sufficiently long to guarantee the making of enough tricks to justify the penalty which may follow if the bid is doubled but not exceed the value of the score that the opponents may make. In a recent rubber game one of the silliest psychics that I have ever heard was made by the West player with the hand below.

East, dealer. North vulnerable.

♠ A 6
♥ A J 10 8
♦ A Q 7 5 4

♥ K 5 3 2
♦ K 10 9 6
♣ 9 8 6 2

♠ K Q J 8 7
♥ 9 8 6
♦ J 10 7
♣ J 10 7

The bidding: (Figures after bid refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

East South West North
Pass Pass 1♠ (1) Dbl. (2)
2♠ (3) Dbl. (4) 2NT (5) Dbl.
Pass Pass

1—A very bad psychic. While West is right in fearing that the opponents may bid and make a game in spades, he should consider what he will do if doubled. The result was that North and South succeeded in taking 12 tricks, setting West 4,500 points.

2—MORROW'S HAND. What should be the final contract reached by North and South on the hand below?

3—East, of course, is unaware of the nature of his partner's bid. He decides to make it difficult for the vulnerable opponents to get together.

4—The psychic nature of West's opening bid is, of course, apparent to South. He therefore joyfully doubles, as he feels quite sure that West cannot find a safe play to play the contract.

5—In the play North, who now realized that West's hand must be well tricked, laid down the ace of spades in very warm sudsy water. A small glass bowl in the best for this. Soap one hand at a time, because if you don't one will dry out while you are "doing" the other.

When a bar of good toilet soap gets too small to use effectively, I throw it into this quart jar of water I keep handy. When I'm ready for a manicure I have liquid soap which can be quickly swished into a suds.

File the nails with a coarse emery board to the shape and length you prefer. Don't file toward the side of the nail. Start at the side and file toward the center. This makes it easier to shape the nails and doesn't encourage bangnails. After filing them, smooth off the rough edges with the finer side of the emery board. You can buy these emery board sticks in packages.

Next take an orange-wood stick and dip it into a bottle of cuticle remover. Take a tiny bit of cotton and twist it on the end of the stick. Don't forget to wet the stick first or the cotton will slide right off of it.

Dip the cotton on the tip of the stick into the cuticle remover and gently rub above the cuticle back, working it out from the center of the nail. Wipe the dead cuticle with a soft piece of cotton, tissue, or a towel.

Then with another cotton stick dipped in cuticle remover clean under the nails carefully.

Then wash the hands with warm water. Three minutes is long enough to let the cuticle remover stay on the fingers.

Remove the old nail polish with polish remover. To do this use a small piece of cotton, or better still another cotton-stick, as the remover has a rather disagreeable scent.

Now take a bottle of polish and, with the small camel's hair brush attached to the cork, paint the nails carefully. It is quite the fad now to keep the polish off the thumb nails. In fact some of the debutantes this year paint the half moon silver and the end of the nails silver, and the nail in between pink or rose or red.

To do this you must be extremely careful of the picture you are painting so you won't smear your paint. The silver nail polish is a little too much for me, but a very beautiful hands if you are in a hurry you will like the pencil best because it doesn't mean washing the hands again. With the paint I find washing necessary. The time to use the white pencil is right after washing off the cuticle remover, as it sticks better if the nails are damp.

Remove the old nail polish with polish remover. To do this use a small piece of cotton, or better still another cotton-stick, as the remover has a rather disagreeable scent.

Now take a bottle of polish and, with the small camel's hair brush attached to the cork, paint the nails carefully. It is quite the fad now to keep the polish off the thumb nails. In fact some of the debutantes this year paint the half moon silver and the end of the nails silver, and the nail in between pink or rose or red.

To do this you must be extremely careful of the picture you are painting so you won't smear your paint. The silver nail polish is a little too much for me, but a very beautiful hands if you are in a hurry you will like the pencil best because it doesn't mean washing the hands again. With the paint I find washing necessary. The time to use the white pencil is right after washing off the cuticle remover, as it sticks better if the nails are damp.

If you want to know where you can purchase any article mentioned in this column phone Mignon at The Constitution office, Walnut 6565. Please do not write unless you live outside the city, in which case enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. Minick Directs 'The Mollusc' For Studio Club

"The Mollusc," a modern English comedy in three acts by Hubert Henry Davies to be presented by the dramatic group of the Studio Club on Friday and Saturday evenings at the club theater at 8:15 o'clock, is under the expert direction of Elaine L. Minick. Mrs. Minick has been a resident of Atlanta for several months, and the Studio Club is fortunate to number her among its members. She was born in a theatrical family in Boston, Mass., her father, mother, aunt and cousin being in the profession. Mrs. Minick was with the Boston Grand Opera Company for one season in Boston, and for three months in Paris, France. She played in stock in the east, and in the company of the late John Drew.

The longest period of her professional experience was with her aunt, Mary Shaw, who created the part of Mrs. Alving in Ibsen's "Ghosts" in this country, and created the part of Kitty Warren in Bernard Shaw's "Mrs. Warren's Profession." After her marriage, Mrs. Minick retired from the stage, but she has been greatly interested in the Little Theaters in her native Boston, in Pittsburgh and Jacksonville, Fla. She has also written several one-act plays which have been successfully produced. The Studio Club is planning to produce one of these plays in the near future.

Mrs. Minick's skill in play direction is evidenced by the cast assembled for this production of "The Mollusc." The lead was given to Paula Causse, a very talented member who points to successful professional and amateur experience in theaters on the west coast. Opposite her is Walter Pischal, who has had outstanding experience with the Little Theater in Nashville, Tenn. Margaret Moss and Irwin McKay, who have the other two roles, are two local "finds" who have been developed in the workshop theater of the Studio Club.

The performance on Friday evening will be a preview for club members, followed by a social hour in charge of Mrs. Alan Abele, assisted by Mesdames J. E. Campbell, J. R. Allaire and Misses Jane Wallace, Angely Sannett and Frances Watters. Club members may bring their friends by securing the regular guest tickets. The production on Saturday evening is open to the public with an admission charge of 40 cents.

HERB DANA SAYS GAME IS OKAY, LEAVE IT ALONE

Clarification of Rules They Need; Officials Meet Today.

By Ralph McGill.

"We've got a good game. All it needs is a little clarification of the existing rules," said Herb Dana, nationally known football official, as he reported Thursday night at the Atlanta Athletic Club, where the National Football Rules Association will meet today and tomorrow.

Dana's sentiments seem to be those held by all who had arrived on Thursday. This included Bill Hunter, director of athletics at Southern California; Dana Bible, head coach at Nebraska; Walter Okeson, chairman of the national rules committee; A. W. Palmer, of the football officials' committee, and H. J. Stegeman, of the national committee.

The intercollegiate football game seems to have been stabilized; injuries have been reduced to a minimum; the game has been made more attractive for the spectator and player. Hence the decision:

"We've got a good game. Let's clarify the rules and let the game

In addition to the football rules committee, headed by Okeson, there will meet with the committee four members of the coaches' advisory group and an equal number from the officials' group.

These will sit in judgment on the more than 50 suggestions that have been made regarding change of football rulings. The rules committee alone, however, will make the decisions.

PROPOSALS.
The proposals to be given the most consideration are eight in number. They were culled from a larger group by action of the coaches' committee, which met last week in New York. These coaches felt that eight rules needed clarification. They were:

- 1—The blocked kick with clarification as to advancement of the ball by the offensive team.

- 2—Eligible men on forward passes with the probability that only eligible men will be permitted to go down under passes, thus eliminating the charges that passes are still being "screened."
- 3—Standardization of equipment.
- 4—Notification by officials to coaches of the number of times taken out.

8—Duties of the field judge on a dead ball. (The referee is now the only one who can call the dead ball.)
6—Protection of passers.
7—Positions of officials on all plays.
8—The penalty for successive incomplete forward passes. (The 5-yard penalty may be abolished.)

OTHER PROPOSALS.

Other proposals, by other groups, have to do with the return of the goal posts to the scrimmage line.

the legalizing of a pass from any point back of the scrimmage line instead of the now necessary 5 yards back; and the abolishment of the present "dead-ball" rule on fumbled kicks.

Oakes, Stegeman, Bill Hunter and Bill Crowell, the only four members of the rules committee to arrive

"I have no idea," seemed to hit the consensus of opinion. The boys have their ideas, of course. But the rules committee seems to be equivalent to a meeting of federal court. There can be no levity about it. It is a solemn piece of business and the boys will act as if they were getting ready to join a lodge.

YOST HERE TODAY.

Fielding H. Yost, Michigan's famous "hurry-up" coach, who now serves as athletic director; Lou Little, Columbia coach; Noble Kizer, Purdue's well-known coach; Dan Mc-

Ugin, for 29 years head coach at Vanderbilt; Alonzo Stagg, of the College of the Pacific but for half century head coach at Chicago, are among those who will report today.

The meetings do not officially begin until tonight. Golf, which was on the program yesterday, will be on the card again today. The meetings begin tonight at 8 o'clock.

H. J. Stegeman, of Georgia, who

The complete membership will be present today.

Attending the meeting will be Oksan, Langford, H. J. Stegeman, Bill Bingham, Bill Crowell, F. H. East, Dana Bible, Ray Morrison, C. H. Smith, Bill Hunter and A. A. Stagg, of the rules committee; W. A. Alexander, Law, Lusk, Lee, W. R. Lee, ander, 1934 Little, Babe Hinningsberry and Noble Kizer, of the coaches' advisory committee, and A. R. Hutchens, A. M. Palmer, Herb Dana and H. B. Hackett, representing the officials.

Decatur, Druid Hills and Gainesville Win Opening Games

MARIETTA, LEE, NEWNAN BEATEN IN FIRST ROUND

Second Games of N. G. I. C. Court Tourney Slated Today.

By Roy White.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Feb. 8.—Two Atlanta teams, Decatur, defending champion, and Druid Hills, and Gainesville, host, survived the first round of the fourth annual North Georgia Intercollegiate conference basketball tournament here tonight. Decatur beat Marietta, 32 to 19; Druid Hills eliminated Newnan, 20 to 12, and Gainesville breezed through R. E. Lee, of Thomaston, 37 to 9.

The Druid Hills-Newnan game was the best of the trio with neither team having any advantage until the closing minutes of play, when the Atlanta team, with some excellent passing, forged into the lead and won with points to spare. Druid Hills entered the fourth quarter leading 12 to 10. Scoring honors for the winners were well divided as every member of the team scored at least two points. Austin, rangy center for Newnan, looked best for the losers. Both teams guarded well and did not until the closing eight minutes of play did Druid Hills break through Newnan's defense with any consistency.

DECATUR HAS BREEZE.
Decatur, with a smooth passing attack, had little trouble in winning from Marietta. The defending champions took command at the opening play and were never headed. The Cobb county lads were held to four field goals and Watson scored all those in the fourth quarter of the game.

After the third quarter ended with Decatur leading 20 to 10, Coach Butler sent in four reserves who continued to pile up points and at the same time keep Marietta well away from the basket. With Miller Evans and Smith leading the way.

Gainesville ran up the highest score of the night in winning from R. E. Lee, of Thomaston, 37 to 9. Miller set the pace with 13 points and was the leading scorer for the trio of games. Evans scored nine points and Smith was close behind with seven.

Quarter-finals will be played Friday afternoon and night with two games scheduled for each session.

Four Atlanta teams are scheduled to battle each other in the Friday afternoon quarter-finals. Druid Hills plays Commercial at 3:30 o'clock and Marietta meets Decatur at 4:30 o'clock. The gymnasium was packed tonight.

FAMOUS GEORGIA ATHLETES

Merritt (Sugar) Cain, Pitcher Philadelphia A's.

In this daily parade of Georgia's outstanding figures in the world of sport, the caption, "Yesterday and Today," was purposely made an elastic one so as to include some of the athletes now figuring in the news.

And since the state of Georgia is going to have a very robust hand in helping Mr. Connie Mack rebuild his derelict Philadelphia Athletics, the young man with whom this morning's article deals is entitled to a few bouquets.

It is high time that something is said about Merritt (Sugar) Cain, the star young right-hander of Mr. Mack's pitching staff, who happens to reside just 80 miles from Atlanta, at Carrollton, Ga.

"Sugar" Cain, as they call him in the big leagues, was the best pitcher in the A's staff last year next to the departed Lefty Grove. And you can bet your last gold piece (if it isn't up at Washington) that Connie Mack is counting heavily upon the strapping young Georgian to become a potent force in his rebuilding program.

HIS SUGAR NOW.
"Sugar" Cain is the sugar in Mr. Mack's coffee right now.

Some of the Philadelphia sports writers are saying quite frankly that the A's won't miss George Earnshaw, who went to the White Sox in Mr. Mack's celebrated winter clearance sale, one bit for the simple reason that George's Mr. Cain will be a more effective and a more conscientious right-hander than George was the last couple of seasons.

In fact, his record of last year speaks the prophecy. The 26-year-old Georgia boy won 13 games and lost 12 for the A's. He won six straight games for the Athletics pitcher other than the great Grove and pitched 16 complete games.

With Earnshaw sulking in his tent and Grove badly overworked, the steady hurling of the quiet Georgian was a great relief to that slender septogenarian, Mr. McGillicuddy.

ALWAYS BEAT NATS.
Furthermore, young Cain was the only Philadelphia pitcher that the champion Washington Senators could not beat. He pitched three games against Joe Cronin's club and beat them, 3-1, 12-3 and 3-1, in the order named.

The writer feels a great personal pride in the success of Merritt Cain. Four years ago, it was our pleasure to introduce him to the manager who gave him his first trial in professional baseball. He had just won his first game against the Fitzgerald, Ga., semi-pro team that spring. He had speed then, and while a gem in the rough, he had the makings of a star.

One April morning in 1930, young Cain, just out of Uncle Sam's army, walked into the Macon ball park and asked to be trained in the Georgia-Alabama league for more experience. The Macon club forgot to attach strings or something and the result was that Cain, the old Philadelphia catcher and now a scout for Macon, bought him that club, despite the fact that he on only eight games and lost 10. Thomas, too, liked his speed and the set of his stocky shoulders.

LOST A GOOD ONE.
The Macon baseball officials of that time are still kicking themselves for not trying to stick to Cain. Thus the Brooklyn Dodgers, who then owned the Macon team, lost a great young pitcher who would be helping that down-trodden club today.

After a year at Harrisburg, Pa., in the New York-Pennsylvania league, young Cain was called to Philadelphia in 1932 to bolster a crippled Athletics staff.

The Georgian made his American league debut in impressive fashion. The A's were playing the powerful Yankees, who won the American flag that year in the end of the season, and the score tied, Connie Mack sent the rookie, Cain, in to relieve.

There were none out. Babe Ruth was on third base and Lou Gehrig at bat. What a spot in which to toss a raw youngster. But this Cain boy had the stuff, both on the ball and under the belt. He had soldiered with Uncle Sam's marines in the Philippines.

PASSES GEHRIG.
Connie Mack prevailed to let Lou Gehrig, Cain did, thereby removing this problem. Then young Cain pleased Mr. Mack greatly and won the admiration of Grove and the other stars by fanning Ben Chapman, who followed, and forcing Lynn Lary to hit into a double play.

Al Simmons tripled in the A's half.

LANIER MEETS PURPLETIGHT AND G.M.A. NEXT

Poets Will Play Cadets Saturday on College Park Court.

LANIER HIGH SCHOOL, which will host to the annual Georgia Intercollegiate Athletic Association basketball tournament March 1 at Macon, Ga., will pay a two-day visit to the city playing Boys' High and G. M. A. on successive nights.

The Poets, with home victories over both Boys' High and Tech High, play the Purpletights at 8 o'clock tonight on the Grady court, in a return game.

G. M. A. will play Lanier at 8:15 o'clock Saturday night on the College Park court in the first meeting of the two this season.

The two games tonight and Saturday should be of interesting interest to the relative strength of some of the outstanding teams entered in the G. I. A. A. tourney.

Boys' High opened its season with a loss to Lanier in Macon and then stopped Albany High the following night after the south Georgia team had won a string of nine victories.

Tech High beat Lanier on the Grady court early in the season, but the account was squared last Saturday night on the Macon court.

G. M. A. and Boys' High broke even in two games and the Cadets to Tech High Tuesday after noon.

The two-game series should be well worth the while.

Tech's Alumni Entertained At Smoker

Georgia Tech alumni, some 200 of them, were made by Coach W. A. Alexander, Red Barron, star half-back of some years ago and now president of Monroe College, and by W. R. Dunwoody Jr., of Macon.

Coach Alexander simply welcomed the alumni and outlined the plan of smokers to be held every month or every two months. Barron and Dunwoody were in the audience.

HITS A SLUMP.
"I wanted to finish my first full season with an average of at least .500. In the middle of the season I got into a slump and lost some close games. With a month to go, my average was 12 lost and 7 won. April 5, I started back to winning by beating St. Louis 4-3 in St. Louis and came straight in the last month."

Merritt Cain is a Simon-pure Georgia product—just like Georgia syrup. He was coached by Georgia coach, W. A. Alexander, and Georgia coach, W. A. Alexander, and Georgia coach, W. A. Alexander.

He was born in Macon, Ga., April 5, 1908. He married a Georgia girl, Miss Alma Moore, at Carrollton, Ga., during the winter months.

And, oh, we forgot to add the fact that Cain is of Irish ancestry. He is quite a specimen, too, weighing 190 pounds and standing 5 feet 11 inches in height.

You'll hear from him this season.

THE BABE AND FLORIDA.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 8.—No state in the Union is taking more interest in the health and general condition of Babe Ruth than Florida.

It was under Florida skies 15 years ago, back in 1919, that the Babe got his big start along the home-run trail. It happened to be along on that invasion and know where there is still a marked spot. It is in one of the smaller Florida towns where the Babe lashed a home run out of the park into a cornfield.

From 1914 up through 1919 Ruth had made his reputation as a left-handed pitcher. It so happens that as a left-hander he set up the best fast-pitching average ever known.

It was 1919 that marked his debut as an outfielder and a slugger. There is an interesting story in connection with this. The star hitters up to that time had begun, after a fashion, with Willie Keeler and had carried on through Ty Cobb.

They belonged to the scientific schools of hitting. Both choked their bats as they relied upon placing the ball in the field. Keeler, called "the old-time" where they ain't."

It was Ruth who started the vogue of gripping the bat down at the lower end and taking a full swing.

And it was in Florida, 15 years ago, that he began his career as a slugger.

They can show you more than one spot in Florida where the Babe hit one-carries of more than 500 feet. Those were the days when the Babe had youth, as well as timing and power. Don't think he couldn't pop one 16 or 17 years ago, but a left-hander with such a curve could stop him colder than a slice of cucumber on ice.

But he could murder the right-handers.

Nearing the End.
For 15 years the Babe has been coming back to Florida, playing his golf and getting ready for the next campaign.

There is a feeling down in this section that this will be the Babe's last training trip for a ball player's campaign.

He may come back again—back in 1935—but the odds are none too keen.

As this may be the Babe's final adventure in the land that Ponce de Leon dedicated to youth, it is only natural that Florida wants to see him in action once more.

Ruth is one of the great swingers of baseball. He is a hitter, but a true swinger. The ball player who came nearer to his style than anyone else was Shoeless Joe Jackson. Ruth still insists that Joe Jackson was the greatest natural swinger he ever saw. Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker beat the Babe up in this belief.

Another great natural swinger was Willie Frank Schulte, and you can add Tris Speaker to this list. Cobb was never a swinger and neither was Willie Keeler.

The Babe takes that big 52-ounce bludgeon by the end of the handle and starts it in motion there is no element of hit. It is all swinging. He is one of the great swingers of baseball. He is a hitter, but a true swinger.

Later on they will probably be welcoming him as a manager for some years to come. But it is the old crash of the bat that still carries its appeal to the populace at large.

OGDEN HORSES TAMPA WINNERS

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Nine first places in the Tampa horse show, second place in the second round, and seven exhibitors, as the competition grew keener.

Ethel Kendall, Well's hunters (Hyde Park, Ill.) and jumper, Gray Broadway, Flying Andy and Flying Fool, began to show a prominence in the events, with two firsts and two seconds in the largest number of honors won by any one stable.

John Ogden's horses from Atlanta were the only others to take two firsts in the events. He won the five-gaited class and the gaited class for entries from four southern states.

Proctor, famous army horse once belonging to General Pershing and now with the Fort McPherson team, led the field in the heavyweight hunter class.

Harley Hoy's harness ponies and horses are beginning to show their best form in the ring, winning three places, a first and two seconds in varied, harness pairs.

Blues Are Beaten By Middle Georgia

COCHRAN, Feb. 8.—The Middle Georgia College basketball team defeated the Albany Y. M. C. A. Blues last night by the score of 30 to 28. The game was one of the best seen in Cochran this season and the outcome of the game could not be predicted until the last few minutes of play when the collegians sank four rapid field goals that placed the game on their side.

For Middle Georgia the work of Robertson, Clu Harrell, Heggido and Sperry was best while Hughes, Griffin and Hardwick played best for the Blues.

The Middle Georgia team leaves Thursday for a three-day trip through south Georgia, playing the colleges at Douglas, Tifton and Norman Park.

Shanghai Express Wins National Quail Honors

Boston Pointer Turns in Great Work and Out-classes Field in Albany Trials.

ALBANY, Ga., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Shanghai Express, three-year-old pointer owned by Dr. F. H. Lahey, of Boston, Mass., today was awarded first honors at the conclusion of the quail championship of the Amateur Field Trial Clubs of America.

There was no question of the superiority of the big liver and white pointer as the gallery gathered to hear the judges' decision. His performance stood out unchallenged by the field since the trials opened Monday.

Second place was awarded Sport's Peerless, tan and black spotted pointer, owned by L. M. Bobbitt, of Winston-Salem, N. C.

More than 20 dogs were entered in the championship and because of the excellence of the terrain for hunting and the abundance of birds, it was understood the event would be held here again next year.

Rapid Transit, present holder of the continental fields trials, opening next Monday. The southern amateur was completed last week.

Stillwater, Okla., had a 1933 fire loss of only 27.4 cents per capita, a report of the fire chief showed.

TARZAN THE INVINCIBLE No. 137

It occurred to Dorsky that perhaps Tarzan did not understand him, so he turned to the tent's entrance and called to some of the blacks. "One of you fellows come here," he said. At first no one would obey, but presently a stalwart warrior advanced.

"See if this fellow can understand your language," said Dorsky. "Tell him that I have a proposition to make to him and that he had better listen to it. 'If this is Tarzan of the Apes,' said the black, 'he can understand me.' He came warily to the tent entrance.

The black repeated the message in his own dialect, but by no sign did the ape-man indicate that he understood. Dorsky lost his patience. "You needn't try to make a fool of me," he cried. "I know you understand this fellow's gibberish."

"I know too that you are an Englishman and that you understand English," he added in a threatening voice. "I'll give you five minutes to think this thing over. If you don't talk then, you can take the consequences." Then he turned on his heel and left the tent.

Son-in-Law Visits

Anne Cannon's Father

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 8. — (AP) — F. Brandon Smith Jr., of Charlotte, N. C., paid a surprise visit here today for a conference with his father-in-law, Joseph R. Cannon, millionaire towel manufacturer of Concord, N. C., whose daughter, Anne Cannon Smith, has established residence here with the announced view of obtaining a divorce under Arkansas 90-day statute.

Smith, who was accompanied by his lawyer, F. R. McInch, was reported to have left the city following the conference.

Cannon said his son-in-law did not come here to effect a reconciliation. The towel magnate said Smith conferred with him on financial matters in which both were interested prior to Mrs. Smith's intention to obtain a divorce. He said the matter was a personal and private one and had nothing to do with a divorce settlement.

Asked if Smith came here to attempt a reconciliation, McInch said: "You will have to see him." "I stated when I arrived here that Mr. Smith would not contest the divorce and that staid," Mr. Cannon said.

JOHN JACOB ASTOR III

SAILS FOR ANTIPODES
WILMINGTON, Cal. Feb. 8. — (AP) — On a liner bound for the Antipodes, John Jacob Astor III today was on trip he described as a lark and not an antidote for a broken heart over the ending of his engagement to Eileen Gillespie, New York debutante.

PARISH AND FORD BOTH INJURED

Tuesday and died Thursday at Grady hospital. The negro boy was struck and almost instantly killed Thursday afternoon.

Technical charges were made by police against A. J. Curtis, of 230 Mathis street, in connection with the accident which claimed Parish's life. His automobile struck Parish at Fair and Connally streets as the man stepped from the curb into the street. Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son. His wife survives him.

Ford died as the result of a fracture of the skull and other injuries received late Tuesday afternoon when he fell from a truck on a sharp curve on Lakewood avenue. He is survived by his wife; a son, A. D. Ford; a daughter, Mrs. R. G. Lane; a brother, Edward Ford; and five sisters, Mrs. Sallie Howard, Mrs. D. L. Massengale, Mrs. W. H. Spratt, Mrs. W. O. Jones and Mrs. A. H. Steward. The J. Austin Dillon Company is in charge of arrangements.

The automobile of Miss Lorene Moon, of 1657 West View drive, who was rushing a friend to Grady hospital for treatment, struck and killed the little negro boy at Ashby and Hunter streets. Henry ran into the path of her car while attempting to cross the street, according to police reports. Miss Moon's friend, Miss Louise Hale, of Bolton road, was injured slightly while skating.

LEE TRACY TO JOIN

UNIVERSAL STUDIOS
HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 8. — (AP) — Summarily discharged by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios several weeks ago as a result of an escape in Mexico, D. E. Lee Tracy, film actor, today signed a contract with the Universal Film Corporation. He will take part in a production of a newspaper romance.

Tracy has been idle since M. G. M. removed him from its payroll as a result of his appearing undressed in a hotel balcony in Mexico City during a military parade. The Mexican government took offense at Tracy's act and the M. G. M. studios tendered an official apology to the government of the southern republic.

Grief Ruled 'Disability' For Insurance Purposes

RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 8. — (AP) — Excessive grief can be classified as a disability in collecting on an insurance policy, under a ruling of the North Carolina industrial commission today.

The ruling was made in the case of Thomas Stanley Jr., employed by a plant nursery in Greensboro. Stanley claimed that he was kept from work for several weeks last July because of grief over the death of his father, killed by a falling tree.

He was awarded $14 in a ruling written by Commissioner T. A. Wilson, who also ordered the insurance company to pay any medical costs. "A disability of this nature," said Commissioner Wilson, "is just as compensable as if the claimant had sustained a broken leg."

SHARP GAIN RECORDED IN AUTO PRODUCTION

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. — (AP) — Production of American automobiles in January was 78 per cent higher than in December. It was revealed today when the American Automobile Chamber of Commerce estimated that approximately 155,000 cars and trucks, including production of the Ford Motor Company, were turned out in that month.

January output, which more truly represents the extent to which the larger manufacturers are getting into quantity production after having their schedules held up as a result of the strike of steel and die makers, was 16 per cent higher than production in January, 1933, and was 26 per cent greater than January, 1932.

"The factories are still behind with their orders," Alfred Reeves, vice president of the chamber, stated, "according to reports we have received, more than 100,000 men, many of whom have had little gainful employment in three years, have been recalled by motor factories, thus bringing total employment of the industry well past the 300,000 mark."

General Motors Corporation reported its sales to consumers in the United States in January amounted to 23,438 cars and trucks, contrasted with 11,651 in December and 50,653 in January, 1933.

The corporation sales to dealers in January amounted to 40,100 units compared with 11,191 in December and 72,274 a year ago.

AUTO ACCIDENTS FATAL TO 4 HERE

A. N. Tyson, 70, Killed When Hit by Car on West Peachtree.

Four persons died in Atlanta Thursday as the result of automobile accidents. They were A. N. Tyson, 70, of 89 Fourth street; W. H. Parrish, of 208 Hunter street; Roswell E. Ford, of Poole road, and Henry McHenry, 9-year-old negro boy, of 867 West Hunter street.

Tyson died at 9:30 o'clock Thursday night, at Grady hospital a short while after he was struck by the automobile of F. N. Sefton, of 1233 Peachtree street, N. E., in front of 902 West Peachtree street. Police made a case of reckless driving against Sefton and set the case for trial at 2:30 February 14.

Sefton told officers Tyson was walking in the middle of the street, and that his car hit the aged man before he could stop it. Tyson was cut about the head and legs and was in shock when he was admitted to the hospital. He died less than an hour following. Blanchard Bros. will announce funeral arrangements.

Parrish and Ford were both injured Tuesday and died Thursday at Grady hospital. The negro boy was struck and almost instantly killed Thursday afternoon.

Technical charges were made by police against A. J. Curtis, of 230 Mathis street, in connection with the accident which claimed Parrish's life. His automobile struck Parrish at Fair and Connally streets as the man stepped from the curb into the street. Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son. His wife survives him.

Ford died as the result of a fracture of the skull and other injuries received late Tuesday afternoon when he fell from a truck on a sharp curve on Lakewood avenue. He is survived by his wife; a son, A. D. Ford; a daughter, Mrs. R. G. Lane; a brother, Edward Ford; and five sisters, Mrs. Sallie Howard, Mrs. D. L. Massengale, Mrs. W. H. Spratt, Mrs. W. O. Jones and Mrs. A. H. Steward. The J. Austin Dillon Company is in charge of arrangements.

SOLONS BACK CUT IN POSTAGE RATES

Printed Matter Fees May Be Reduced, Bank Check
Tax Abolished.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The house ways and means committee, after weeks of juggling the figures and rates of the tax bill to give the government more income, today trimmed quite a few millions of revenue from the measure by taking the tax off bank checks and lightening the postage for the person who sends printed matter through the mail.

Then, recalling that many disagreements in committee that had sent rates scamporing first this way, then that, and had frequently upset deliberated decisions reached after days of study, leaders considered plans to bring the bill up in the house under rules that would prevent members from smashing the schedule of rates prepared by the committee.

The bill, finished late today, will be considered by the house next Wednesday.

Reduction in Yield.

As it stands, the treasury estimated it would yield $235,000,000 compared with the $300,000,000 figure given out previously by committee members.

Repeal of the two-cent bank check stamp tax would be effective January 1, 1935, under the plan agreed upon today. This levy produced $35,000,000 in the 1933 calendar year.

Lowering of the postage rates on second-class matter would become effective on July 1, 1934. It would re-instate those in effect prior to the 1932 act. The committee continued the present three-cent rate on first-class matter for another year from June 30.

President Roosevelt was voted authority to cut the first-class rate to two cents if the condition of the treasury justified the reduction.

Assistant Postmaster-General Howes had told the committee that if the present rates on first and second-class matter were not continued for another year from the date of expiration June 30, the department's receipts would be reduced $75,000,000.

Newspapers, magazines and distributors of advertising matter will benefit by the return to the old second-class rates.

The postage rates on second-class matter after July 1, 1934, compared with the present rates follow:

Proposed Rates	Present Rates
First and second zone 11-2c	11-2c
Third zone 2c	2c
Fourth zone 3c	3c
Fifth zone 4c	4c
Sixth zone 5c	5c
Seventh zone 6c	6c
Eighth zone 7c	7c
Ninth zone 8c	8c
Tenth zone 9c	9c

Before approving the measure, the committee struck out a proposal for an increase from 21 to 42 cents a barrel levy on imported petroleum. This was referred to a subcommittee. The vote was 14 to 11.

Other Provisions.

Broadly speaking, the measure provides for a revision of the income and surtax rate structure, lightening up of the capital gains and loss provision of the income tax law, levying of a heavy tax on personal holding companies, reducing credits on reorganizations of corporations and reducing credits on foreign payments.

In addition, the bill provides for a retaliatory tax on nationals of foreign countries which discriminate against Americans abroad.

It provides a five cents a pound tax on coconut and sesame oils, carries provisions designed to curb the trafficking in illegally produced oil; authorizes employment of ten experts to assist the secretary of the treasury, and creates the office of general counsel in the treasury to handle all tax matters.

What 120 Millions Think

A Symposium of the American Reaction to the New Deal.

This is the sixth in a series of daily articles by Ralph W. Page, economist and writer, who has toured the country to discover what its people think of the national recovery program and is now putting his findings into writing.

By RALPH W. PAGE.

(Copyright, 1934, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

There has developed in the United States in recent years a great number of superior and thoughtful men in places of power who sincerely desire to carry the life "more abundant" to their employees—executives who are more concerned with the welfare and living standards of the whole people than they are with the immediate details of their balance sheets.

I know that the mechanical-minded deny that this is so. But during a month in my tour of inquiry and observation I have talked with a dozen such socially conscious men. One of the largest employers in the United States told me that a strike was a sign of either rotten management or sick business. That there should be no such thing as a "labor market" and no difference between a man who hired and one who was hired. That in a reasonable world men treated each other with consideration and respect, and shared the rewards of their mutual efforts with a spirit of generosity to the best of their ability. And that if a manager did not feel able to do so, he was unfit to command an industry, and should be deposed or compelled to conform to the better order.

Redistribution.

Following this line of thought I asked innumerable bankers, investors, capitalists, managers and people in the upper strata of the business world, what they thought of the New Deal in the country. Almost without exception they said, "a redistribution of wealth" or a redistribution of income.

To most of these men this seemed neither astonishing nor dreadful. A good many seemed to think that it was not only inevitable but desirable. Many more than one would suppose. The rub came on the question of degree. They believed it all to be a relative matter, like the national debt or the subject of inflation, and so of course it is. A question of temperance. Some division of income, some increase of our debt to relieve distress, some limitation to compound debts without. But not too much!

How Einstein must laugh at the economists! If all things are relative, by what measuring rod does a statistician measure "enough" redistribution of income, or enough debt? Compared with what are we inflating too much or too little? Is the United States in 1934 par or bogie? The answer can only be found in the temperament, desires, hearts and feelings of the 120,000,000 people concerned. Hence it is an important fact when I say that I discovered that a great number of the men whose wills control the business world are ready to accept some further division of the fruits of industry with their employees.

Record of Past.

People do not adapt themselves to political economy. Political economy, like the rules of grammar applied to Shakespeare's plays, is nothing at all but a record of what has already happened. If people want to, they can always do unheard of and hence impossible things, even agree to dissipate their entire resources in wages. As an illustration I recall this conversation:

"Do you own this place?"

"Yes, but not for long now, thank God."

"What do you mean?"

"Bill there," pointing to a man plowing in the field, "has got to buy it next week."

"He has, eh?"

"He used to own it. I worked for him for $100 a month until I got all his money. Then I bought the place from him, and hired him at $100 a month. But he agreed to buy it back when my money gave out. So it's my turn to work next."

Industrialists in general seem grudgingly willing to let their own employees organize for collective bargaining. But there is violent opposition in a majority of the plants in the country to organization by "outsiders," meaning in most cases the American Federation of Labor.

Two Views.

The federation officials, in most cases will tell you that the employers intimidate the men, and write the constitution and rules of their own company unions. Employers say they get along perfectly well with their men and that the men really do not want to be gouged for dues by professional agitators, whose only interest is to make themselves fat salaries.

From my own observation I can say that both statements are substantially correct in many instances. Under the emergency acts the workmen in any plant are legally entitled to join the national union or any other they wish. But there is a very determined section of American business which, failing in persuasion, absolutely refuses to recognize any outside union, law or no law, administration or no administration. A large manufacturing company in Philadelphia has had a strike on its hands testing out this issue.

As usual in a democracy it is not at all a question of the letter of the statute. The working of an economic and social change involved in the effort of the A. F. of L. to battle for all labor depends in the first instance on their ability to enroll the loyal support of a large proportion of the workmen and in the second to their ability to enlist the preponderance of public opinion on their side.

The trial of this process is going on. The federation has gained enormously in membership. But its enthusiastic supporters are largely in the sick and mismanaged industries. The organization has a long way to go before its control will be recognized as an integral part of the American system.

Gregory To Speak.

Louis Gregory, secretary of the Phil National Council, will speak at the First Congressional church, Houston and Courtland streets, at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night. The speaker is sponsored by the women's organizations of the church. Miss Will be furnished by the Booker T. Washington High school chorus.

Vets' Policy of Hines Critiqued by Tarver

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Charging that the veterans' administration was nullifying President Roosevelt's new regulations providing for more liberal treatment of World War veterans, Representative Malcolm C. Tarver, of Dalton, Ga., today severely criticized General Hines and other high officials of the veterans' administration. He charged they are not co-operating with the chief executive in sympathetically constraining the president's regulations of January 19.

"There is a general feeling in congress," said the Georgian, "that authorities of the veterans' administration, which is headed by General Hines, a republican, are not co-operating with the president in their efforts to administer sympathetically the veterans' laws."

He called attention to the fact that although one of the president's regulations restored the rate of compensation for service connected cases existing prior to the passage of the economy bill, officials of the veterans' administration had in certain cases, without re-examining veterans reduced their disability rating so that the effect was their pensions instead of being increased as directed by the president were in fact decreased.

CONFEDERATE MARKER TO BE UNVEILED HERE

on the greensward of the Peachtree Christian church at Spring and Peachtree. The marker is being presented through the Atlanta chapter U. D. C. and commemorates the first line of defense of the Battle of Atlanta.

Principal speakers for the occasion will be Governor Talmadge and Mayor Key. Delegations from Tech High, the 122d infantry, a group of officers from Fort McPherson, and a number of prominent U. D. C. officials will attend the ceremony.
